10 Tips for Hassle-Free Business Travel

10 Tips for Hassle-Free Business Travel by June Campbell

If you're a road warrior, these travel tips will help reduce the stress of your journeys.

1. Choose your Travel Modality Wisely

Planes, trains or automobiles: what's the choice to be? While air travel is clearly the only way to go for long journeys, shorter trips of a couple of hundred miles might be faster via train, bus or auto. When making your decision, consider time spent traveling to and from airports, plus time spent lining up for check in, security and departure. Also consider the effects inclement weather can have on your travel choice. It's no fun hearing the announcement that your plane can't land due to poor visibility and you'll be returning to your departure airport.

2. Consider Alternative Airports

If you're flying, consider alternative airports that are outside the city you're going to visit. As a rule, these airports have fewer flights, less overbooking and less delays than their larger counterparts.

3. Obtain an International Drivers License

If traveling outside your own country, an international driver's license will be more readily recognized than your locally issued driver's license. The cost is not prohibitive and in most regions, the licenses are easily obtained by showing your local driver's license. Inquire at your local Automobile Association.

4. Get Your Maps Before You Leave Home

Travel is less stressful if you know how to get around. Before leaving home, obtain maps of your destination city. One approach is to visit web sites such as City Search (<http://www.citysearch.com/>) and print out maps. Place your printed maps in plastic folders for protection against the elements. Trying to read a road map while standing on a rainy street corner has its obvious disadvantages.

5. Carry Electronic Documents Rather than Hard Copy

Rather than carry heavy stacks of brochures or sales letters, take electronic documents on diskettes and have them printed at a local printing service. Similarly, if you are working a booth in a trade show, it's a good idea to carry electronic documents in case you run out of the stack you shipped from the office.

6. Find Hotels that Cater to Business Travelers

Hotels that cater to business travelers will have Internet capabilities and offer access to business machines such as faxes and photocopiers.

7. Remember Adaptors and Converters

If you're traveling to a foreign country, remember that you might need special voltage adaptors for electricity. You might also need plug adaptors to accommodate both electrical plugs and telephone jacks. A good travel store will be able to help you decide what's needed.

8. Use Calling Cards

When you're staying at a hotel, the phone bill can be a major expense. The cost of calling your family, checking your voice mail and checking your email is best handled by using a telephone calling card or a corporate credit card.

9. Check your Cellular Service

Cellular phone companies regularly offer new rates. Check to be sure you're getting the best deal — some now include long distance charges in the monthly fee. If your business travel will take you to small, out-of-the way towns, your digital phone might not work. You will need an analog or dual digital/analog phone for such trips.

10. Protect Yourself Against Theft

Before leaving home, make copies of your travel documents (passport, airline tickets, travel insurance, credit cards and itinerary).

Take copies with you and leave a copy with a contact at home. Take special precautions for your electronics. See what your local travel store has to offer in terms of protective luggage. You can purchase laptop cases that disguise the fact that they're used for laptops, or laptop cases that look old and battered. And of course, you already know how fast and savvy a pickpocket can be. Avoid carrying important documents in your purse or hip pocket.

Signs Of A Trustworthy And Reliable Travel Web Site

By Frank Johnson

The web has turned into a valuable resource for travel deals, discount airfare, and travel hints, tips, and tricks. However, some travel web sites are more valuable than others. Some provide you with in-depth travel guides and savings on airfare to destinations worldwide that just can't be beat. However, some fall short and just can't offer the information and savings other travel web sites can. So how do you differentiate between the thousands of travel sites currently on the Internet? The solution is to look for sites that offer comparison shopping, travel guides, and free browsing.

Travel Web Site with Comparison Shopping

A primary feature of a reliable and resourceful travel web site is its ability to provide competing airfare pricing from multiple providers. Not all travel sites provide you with multiple travel rates. Some only provide airfare prices from one or two providers (who, of course, they've partnered with to only offer their airline tickets). These sites aren't trying to help you find the best deals in airfare. They're just hocking their partner's airfare tickets. A travel web site that offers multiple rates is honestly trying to help you find the best deal on airfare to the destination of your choice by presenting you with as many airfare rates as possible. The more options you have, the better your chances are of finding a great deal on airfare.

Travel Web Site with Travel Guides

If you're planning on going overseas to a destination you've never been to before, it's important to find a travel guide that provides you information about the region, the people, the culture, and even the weather. A reputable travel site will have a selection of travel guides to many top destinations across the globe. A travel web site that doesn't offer information about traveling to specific countries isn't much of a travel site. And believe it or not, there are sites out there that claim to be travel sites but don't offer anything more than airfare. If you're looking for a reputable and reliable travel web site, find one that offers free travel guides AND deals on airfare.

Travel Web Site with Free Browsing

If you're searching the web for deals on airfare, your best solution is to find a travel web site that allows you to browse its airfare deals for free. Not all travel sites allow you to browse for free. Some require you to provide your credit card and personal information before you can even look at their airfare deals.

10 Tips for Hassle-Free Business Travel

Even though you're not being billed for browsing, it's still a hassle to fill out an online form and hand over your valuable credit card information just to see if you can save a few bucks on a flight. A reliable and trustworthy travel website will allow you to search for cheap airfare for free. Of course, when it comes time to purchase airfare, you will have to submit some information or become a member of the site to take advantage of their airfare deals, but until you're absolutely ready to buy, there should be no need for you to take out your credit card or even provide a site with your email address. If you're looking for a trustworthy and reliable travel web site, find one that allows you to browse for airfare deals for free.

There are literally thousands of websites on the web that claim to be travel sites. And on some levels they are. But if you want to save time and money, find a website that offers comparison shopping, travel guides, and free browsing. A travel web site that offers these three items obviously understands what it takes to travel.

cFares is the first choice thousands of knowledgeable travelers are using right now to save hundreds of dollars on low airfares. For a reliable travel web site and travel deals, visit
