1) BACK END CATALOGING

Send your customers a catalog of add-on products for the original product they purchased. This could be upgrades, special services, attachments, etc. If they enjoy your product they will buy the extra add-ons.

You could charge other businesses for including their products in the catalog too. This'll help to pay for postage, packaging and producing the catalog. If you want to cut costs, produce the catalog in email or ebook format.

2) GIFT CERTIFICATES

Sell gift certificates for your products. You'll make sales from the purchase of the gift certificate, when the recipient cashes it in. If the recipient never uses the gift certificate, it adds up to a huge profit.

When people do use their gift certificates they may also buy other products you offer while they are shopping around your web site.

3) PROMOTIONAL PRODUCTS

Add free products in with your customer's product package. The freebies should have your ad printed on them. It could be bumper stickers, ball caps,
