5 Perfect Christmas Gift Ideas For Him

By Rosie Fletcher

It's holiday time again and what should you get for him? He has everything, so what else could there possibly be? Don't give up yet because there are plenty of unique ideas for the man who's difficult to shop for.

Gift Idea For Him #1: Naming a Star in His Honor

If the man in your life is also a star in your eyes, let him know with the perfect Christmas gift idea. There are many online novelty stores, which offer star naming kits. For a set price, you can have a star named after the man in your life. The complete kits come with a certificate, a map so that he can locate his special star and other information about star naming and astronomy. You can also select a date in which the star was officially named. Maybe it's an Anniversary or Birthday. Perhaps, it's in honor of Christmas. The star naming service will imprint any date that you choose on the certificate. Many of the stores offer custom framing, or you can find a frame at a local department store. If he's into astronomy, or just to let him know that you think he's a star, this is a great gift. In addition, it's unlikely that most people would already have a star named after them so this would be very original.

Gift Idea For Him #2: A Watch

If you want to let him know that you love it timeless, buy him a watch. It's practical, thoughtful and carries a wonderful meaning. Slip a note inside the watch box, which reads "Time flies when I'm with you." Gold watches are nice and they don't always have to be expensive. Shop around at some of the online stores and browse their huge selection of watches.

Gift Idea For Him #3: Tools

If the gentleman in your life is also the home's handyman, consider a toolkit. There are some terrific kits, which contain hundreds of items, which are available and make wonderful Christmas gift ideas. When searching for the perfect toolkit, keep in mind what he likes to do. If he prefers to build things, look for a kit with the tools necessary for building. If he likes to repair, look for a kit with a lot of fix-it tools and spare gadgets. You know what they say – busy hands are happy hands.

Gift Idea For Him #4: Unique Sports Items

If your guy is a sports nut, consider the ultimate unique gift. Log on to his favorite team's website and read about any construction or new projects being built for use by the team. Many times, during construction of a new facility or building, the teams will sell customized bricks to help with financing of the project. You could purchase a brick used for construction, have it engraved with his name and present a certificate to let him know that he will forever be a part of his favorite sports team. If his favorite team is building a new stadium or other brick structure, the brick would be used and forever remain as part of the facility. Talk about a homerun, this will be it! A better Christmas gift idea, for a sports fan, would be difficult to find. If he's a race fan, check out the Auto Racing Hall of Fame & Museum in North Carolina, where you can purchase actual race-used tires from some of NASCAR's top drivers for less than $100.00, which includes the Certificate of Authenticity.

Gift Idea For Him #5: A Gift Card

If you've looked all around and still can't find the perfect gift, consider a gift card. For the man that is truly impossible to shop for, let him do the shopping for himself. Gift cards are great because they give the recipient an opportunity to buy anything in the store, as determined by the value of the gift card, without spending a dime.

Personalizing Your Presents With Gift Baskets

By Susan Green

When it comes time to purchase a gift for your next occasion, consider adding a decorative gift basket to make your presentation even more special. Synonymous with Easter, gift baskets are also used for birthday gift-giving, as well as Christmas, Valentine's Day and other holidays.

As the snow begins to fall and the Christmas trees are being decorated, everyone begins to think about creative ways to prepare their gifts. While the most traditional option has always been gift wrap, choosing to give a festive holiday basket filled with gifts and wrapped in cellophane is a much more artistic approach to gift giving. If you are shopping for a child, for instance, perhaps a favorite DVD movie, a gift card and a popular music CD placed inside of a small holiday basket will be just the ticket. Once the gifts are placed inside, whether individually wrapped or not, carefully place the basket inside of a cellophane bag imprinted with a Christmas theme. Once inside, secure the top of the bag tightly with clear tape and add a fancy red bow. Don't forget the name tag!

Another popular idea, when it comes to gift baskets, is a fruit selection for your friends and family. In addition, a fruit basket is also ideal as a gift for mail carriers, physicians, teachers, employers, etc. The best way to prepare gift baskets filled with fruit is to purchase a plain basket without the handle, which can be used as a centerpiece in the family or dining room, and begin to add an array of colorful fruits. Among the most popular additions are apples, oranges, plums, pears, strawberries, grapes, etc.

If you are curious for other ideas for inclusion in your special occasion gift baskets, consider adding jewelry, a wallet or purse, concert or sporting event tickets, gift certificates and cards, stuffed animals, candies, etc. The more variety and color that you can add to gift baskets, the more festive your overall packaging will appear. As for alternative ideas for gift baskets, consider putting together a special package for your pet, a baby or wedding shower, anniversary celebration, etc. There are unlimited options for creating the perfect gift basket filled with plenty of goodies and a lot of imagination.

If you are more of a shopper and less of a decorator, that's no problem. You can purchase a plain gift basket at your local florist, go out and purchase the items that you want to include and ask that they prepare the basket for you to give as a gift. Because their career revolves around their ability to make arrangements beautiful, a florist is the perfect person to help with all of your gift baskets and creative arrangements.
