6 Hot Tips To Get Your Articles Read

By H. Refky Monier

Writing articles could be fun, as well as profitable for you and your site, Once you get the hang of it!!

Of course, writing articles must be about something you know about, that's why if you own a site, you probably is knowledgeable about that certain topic and theme. When you write about it, you won't have a hard time because you already know what it is and what it's about. It's just a matter of making your articles creative and interesting.

There are many people who dread having to write papers or articles. Many just feel like it seems to be too much work and it all just goes to waste when no one reads them. To some people, reading articles seems like working too hard, especially if the article is boring and very bland. Well, articles are supposed to be read, that's their purpose to impart your message and information. If it is not read then it is a waste of time and effort.

But all the same, articles have to be written to be read. It's just a matter of making them good. Making a good article doesn't have to be strenuous and straining. There are just some points needed to be reminded of, and some guides to follow.

To make sure that your articles get read and enjoyed, here are six red hot tips to get your articles read. These tips will make your articles readable and interesting.

1) Provide a good attention-grabbing title or header. If your title can entice a person's curiosity you're already halfway in getting a person to read your article. Use statements and questions that utilize keywords that people are looking for. Provide titles or headers that describe your articles content but should also be short and concise.

Use titles like, "Tips to Quit Smoking forever", or "Why you should not Stop Smoking" .You could also use titles that can command people, for example, "Quit Smoking in six easy Days". These types of titles reach out to a persons' emotions and makes them interested.

2) Use short paragraphs. When the paragraph are very long, the words get jumbled in the mind of the reader just looking at it It can get quite confusing and too much of a hard work to read. The reader will just quickly disregard the paragraph and move on to much easier reading articles that are good to look at as well as read. Paragraphs can be a single sentence, sometimes even a single word!

3) Make use of numbers or bullets. As each point is stressed out, numbers and bullets can quickly make the point easy to remember and digest. As each point, tip, guide or method is started with a bullet or point, readers will know that this is where the tips start and getting stressed. Format you bullets and numbers with indentations so that your article won't look like a single block of square paragraphs.

4) Use Sub-headings to sub-divide your paragraphs in the page. Doing this will break each point into sections but still would be incorporated into one whole article. It would also be easy for the reader to move on from one point to another; the transition would be smooth and easy. You will never lose your readers attention as well as the point and direction to where the article is pointing.

5) Keep them interested from the start to the finish. From your opening paragraph, use real life situations that can be adopted by the reader. Use good descriptions and metaphors to drive in your point, just don't over do it. Driving your examples with graphic metaphors and similes would make it easy for them to imagine what you are talking about. Making the experience pleasurable and enjoyable for them.

6) Utilize figures when necessary and not just ordinary and insipid statements. Using specific facts and figures can heighten your article because it makes it authoritative. But do not make it too formal, it should be light and easy in them and flow. Like a friendly teacher having a little chat with an eager student.

p.s: Writing Articles is a very profitable way for you and your site. Think about PUBLICITY!!
To your success.

Free Articles - Tips For Finding The Best Ones

By Paton Jackson

Free articles are my bread and butter. I am always looking for knowledge on various subjects -

6 Hot Tips To Get Your Articles Read

Science articles, health articles, newspaper articles and much more. Ironically, I have decided to share the tips I have gathered over the time on finding the best free articles by writing a free article. Enjoy it.

Here are some tips that will help you locate the most suitable articles for you:

1. Stay focused - Looking for free articles on the web is addictive. You could easily find yourself sitting for hours staring at the computer screen with no real outcome. Remind yourself constantly what you are looking for and ask yourself if you are currently in the way to achieving it.
2. Read the articles' abstract or summary to eliminate irrelevant articles.
3. Informational not commercial - If you are reading a page with too many pictures, adds or reviews, you are in the wrong place. Look for more objective data on informational pages.
4. Look In the right places - I suggest you consider looking for free articles using one of two methods.

The first, Look for the free article in google or in your favorite search engine by writing in the "Search" field: "The articles' subject" + "article". This way you will get textual content and not spam commercial sites.

The second, Look for the articles' subject in article directories like ezinearticles.

5. Read the comments - You are not first who have read the article. You could save time by reading the articles' comments before reading all the articles. If all the readers wrote negative comments, do not bother reading the free article. In some article directories you could even see the average grade given by the readers.
6. Time is money - If you are looking for a quality article and now, my best advice would be: pay for it. A couple of dollars sure worth the hours of looking for the needle in a haystack.
