9 Great Ways To Increase Your Web Business Profits Before Christmas!

By Adrian Calvin

Christmas is around the corner, and it is time to cash in so we can concentrate on what matters, more free time, more money, and more gifts! Ok, let's begin...

Search Engines - If it has been more than a few months since you submitted, do so again To make sure you get as many pages as possible indexed. Also, make sure to create Google Site Map and a Yahoo Site Map if you have not done so already.

Forums - Forums are an outstanding way to market your product and/or business. Simply Join a forum and contribute to it like everyone else, BUT, put the site address to your business in your signature. If people like what you have to say or you are interesting they will gravitate towards your link like the Moon to the Earth!

Ezines - Ezines have long been known to be a GREAT way to advertise your online business. Ads are not always inexpensive, but the readership is so large, you are Nearly GARUNTEED to get some conversions.

– Ezine Advertising

PPC Advertising - IF you are willing to put up a little bit of money before you make some (CRUCIAL) then you will want to investigate Pay Per Click(PPC) Advertising as well. With PPC advertising, a service, such as Google, places ads that you write on other Websites and search pages. When someone in the vast reaches of cyberspace clicks the ad, you owe Google a certain amount of money. The scope of how prices are set is beyond this article, but you can get advertising positions and slots for as little as 10 cents a click.

Writing Articles - Writing articles is a tried and true technique of generating more business. If you know about something, doesn't matter what it is as long as somebody is interested in it, write an article and get more people to your site. In addition you can have articles written for you by some services for as little as a few dollars per article.

After you have your article, whether you wrote it or had it written for you, you will want to distribute to a site so that the world can see it. A great site for this is:

For getting great articles automatically for promotion of your business, I recommend :

– Article System – It helps you generate rich content quickly for your site

Blogging - In addition to your main site, having a Blog is a great way to build customer loyalty and increase your profits quickly. Simply create the Blog and link it back to the main site. Visitors will want to return to your site often so they can see the latest Blog update. This will allow you to show ads, and have them see the ads over and over. It is widely accepted that someone must see an ad several times before they decide to buy. Blogs give you the ability to show your ad to someone multiple times with ease. You will also want to submit your Blog to Blog Specific engines and advertising sites, for this you might want to investigate:

– Blog Blaster Pro for easy Blog promotion

Business Cards - Nowadays a person can make their own business cards or have them printed nearly free from many services, like :

Have some made for yourself, and hand them out to everyone you know, and leave them on Bulletin boards in public places.

Celebrate With Christmas Decorations

By Rachael Cleipher

Christmas is without a doubt one of the most cherished and celebrated times of the year. Most people love to anticipate the coming of Christmastime because of all the great things that Christmas means to them. One of the best ways to anticipate, celebrate, and make the most of the holidays is the use of Christmas decorations.

There is nothing lovelier than entering a house at Christmastime that is filled with beautiful Christmas decorations that reflect the love of the family and the values of the season. Nothing is more special than seeing a family Christmas tree filled with homemade ornaments a strings of popcorn that the children have spent hours making. Christmas decorations can transform even the most bland house into a warm and life-filled house during the holidays and that is why I love Christmas decorations so much.

Spending a Saturday putting up Christmas decorations can be a great way for a family to spend time together and build lasting family traditions at the same time. Children will learn to enjoy the work that goes into making their home beautiful during the holidays if they are included in putting up the Christmas decorations. Spend time teaching your kids the importance of Christmas and the different things that your Christmas decorations symbolize for your family. Use the hours of decorating to teach important faith and life lessons. Once you have worked hard at putting up Christmas decorations all day, spend the evening watching old Christmas films and eating pizzas.

Do you have any memories of making your childhood home beautiful with Christmas decorations? When I grew up, there was a rule in our home that we couldn't pick out a tree or put up any Christmas decorations unless everyone in the family was home. Even after my older siblings went to college we continued this special tradition. It has been fun to pass down a similar tradition to my own family.

My children love to anticipate the day that we will go to the tree farm as a family and cut down the perfect tree. They love to help get the boxes of Christmas decorations out of the basement. And they especially love to sort through the Christmas tree ornaments and choose the ones they want to place on the limbs of our tree.

Before the next holiday season rolls around consider ways that you and your family can celebrate by making new traditions or reviving old ones as you beautify your home with Christmas decorations.
