A JOB AND A JOB PROMOTION

A JOB AND A JOB PROMOTION by Irvin L. Rozier

This is a short version of story number 19 (out of 50) from my book, My Walk with the Lord, <http://www.selahbooks.com/>

Psalm 75. 6,7 "For promotion cometh neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the south. But God is the judge: he putteth down one, and setteth up another."

I was seeking the Lord for the right job He wanted me to have. I had submitted many applications, but had not had an interview. Those of you who have been through a period of unemployment can understand the frustration of this, especially with the bills piling up. However, when trusting God, we understand the value of waiting for God's timing.

As I rode by the local shopping mall, a vacant buidling nearby would draw me. Several times, I pulled up to this building and the Lord spoke to me and said, "This building is where I want you to work." I had no idea of what kind of work I'd be doing. The Lord was silent on that subject.

About two weeks later, I saw a job advertisement in the local paper. The job was for an instructor of retail sales at a small vocational school. The applications were being accepted at---you guessed it---that vacant building near the mall.

I submitted the application, was interviewed and offered the job. At the same time, I was offered a state job with more money and benefits. I did not hesitate when the Lord spoke to me and said "Take the instructor position."

Each morning before class, I would read a verse of scripture. A few students objected at first but some of those later volunteered to read the scripture for the day. After I'd been teaching for several weeks, the Lord spoke to me and said, "I want you to go to the Bahamas." I replied, "I don't have the money to go." The Lord replied, "I'll make the way to go, just be prepared to go." About two months later, the Lord spoke to me and said, "Irvin, I want you to be the head administrator of this school. Your time in this position will be short, so don't even put your name over the door." A couple of weeks later, the head administrator resigned so I assumed I'd be promoted to the job like the Lord spoke. Lo and behold, another person from corporate headquarters came to take the position. I immediately prayed and asked the Lord about this..The Lord spoke to me and said "Have faith." Three days later, the other person was gone, and I was promoted to head administrator. As part of the promotion, I received a free cruise to the Bahamas where the Lord used me in a special way – but that is another story! I held this job for a few months and then the Lord moved me on to another mission.

Daniel 2.21 "And he changeth the times and the seasons; he removeth Kings, and setteth up Kings; he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding."

Footnote.....Several of my students were saved at this school, and many asked me for prayer.

How To Increase Your Chance Of Promotion At Work

By Andrew Smith

Job promotions are not something that happens all of a sudden. Getting promoted is not only about your growth but it is equally proportional to the benefits an organization expects you to deliver for them. In short to expect a promotion one has to prove his abilities and capability as an individual or in other words be an efficient employee.

In order to achieve the status of an efficient employee one must keep the following things in mind:

- Ensure that you do your job well within the time and at desired quality levels
- Master your job: make sure you know the current job you are on as well as the back of your hand. Be an expert.
- Try and keep yourself away from workplace politics and gossips. Having said that, do not totally exclude yourself from the workplace politics because having contacts and having influence can help as well as hinder, so be selective and have the correct approach.
- Be a good listener, this will always help you to enhance your working capabilities.
- Have a positive approach towards responsibilities delegated on you.
- Always try and do a bit extra then what you have been asked to do while strictly keeping in mind the work done is acceptable and useful to the company.
- Look presentable: Although it may sound strange that how the way you look has an impact on your working capacities but it definitely changes the way a person perceives you.

- Patience is required in some instances where after meeting all the above points a promotion is not secured, hang on its on the way.
- Continuously keep upgrading your skill rapid changes in technology and management approaches it's absolutely necessary for an employee to upgrade continuously to enable him to perform well as well as keep his chances for a promotion alive.
