Abandoned Empires by Larry Johnson

Ever wonder what happens to all of those free sites, free auto-responders, free affiliate links and everything else once they are abandoned and forgotten.

You and I are probably both guilty of creating and abandoning a lot of auto-responders, free sites, etc., if you have been online for any length of time as I have.

It does happen.

Years ago folks bought things to last a lifetime. A good watch is an example. Now, we can get a watch in a cereal box that keeps better time, and when it quits you just throw it away and get another one.

Not all that is abandoned is free. Many sites and services that were bought have been abandoned too. There are many abandoned empires lying around the net.

An area that I haven't even touched on is that of SPAM. There is a topic that adds a great deal to this potential problem that we have dealt with in previous articles.

As we change to new computers, change email addresses, ISPS, and web hosts, we lose contact with a lot of things we have created and maintained. The normal flow of email reminders that it even exists is now cut off.

What happens to all of that junk ?

I mean, it's not like there is a cyberspace junk patrol that comes by, cleans up our "mess" and discards it. At least, I don't think that such a service exists.

So does all of that stuff must just keep floating around in cyberspace forever?

If so, Seems as if eventually it would begin to *plog up* things. Someone would stumble across some of it just by accident and say, "Hey, who left this lying here?"

This may be a new opportunity for some enterprising entrepreneur. You could create a new service that specializes in cleaning up all of that Cyber Junk that has just been cluttering up the internet for several years now. Hmmm....?

Or, perhaps cyberspace is infinite. There is no end to the junk we can leave out there and it won't make a dent in the greater picture.

Why Yogyakarta Is Unique!

By Jerry Hall

Yogyakarta (which is often spelled and called in different ways such as Jogjakarta, Yogya, or Jogja for short) is Indonesia in miniature. When visitors come to inhale the air of Yogyakarta, they feel like they have lived. Yogyakarta has been best described as a Never Ending Asia, Java's cultural heart, the soul city of Java, or planted in the fertile heartland of Central Java, (it is) the cradle of great Javanese empires... the capital of ancient kingdoms, medieval empires and modern revolution and an engaging melange of style and moods.

Kepatihan Danurejan It was the Dalem (mansion) and office of the Patih (Sultan's Chief Minister) during feudal (colonial time). The official name of every Patih of Karaton Yogyakarta was Danurejo, So the building is locally known as Kepatihan Danurejan, now is the office of the Governor of Yogyakarta Special Region, located North of Beringharjo Market.

Stasiun Tugu The main railway station with its colonial style located north of Kepatihan , south of Tugu. It is a very convenient station with regular connections to Jakarta, Solo, Semarang, Surabaya and other cities in Java.

Tugu A monument stands in the crossroad of Jl. Malioboro and Jl. Sudirman. It has a symbolic meaning for the meditation and it is one of the magical line of Yogya, consisting of (south to north); the South Sea, the Karaton Yogyakarta, Tugu and Mount Merapi.

The Yogyakarta Special Region lies approximately 7 South of the equator line and is bathed in tropical; sunshine along the year. Having a tropic climate the daily atmosphere feels a little bit hot and humid. These are only two seasons along the year, the wet or rainy seasons and dry monsoon. Usually the wet seasons begin at September and lasts about August.

Generally there is no rainfalls from may to August and there fore the atmosphere feels hot and humid on the day and cool in the night and early morning. The monthly rain falling Yogyakarta varies between 3mm and 496mm in which those above 300mm take place during the month of January up to April. The heaviest rainfall usually occurs in February while the lowest commonly happens between May and October Average annually rainfall is about 1,900mm.
