Accomplish Your Dream of Becoming a Lawyer...with distance learning

Accomplish Your Dream of Becoming a Lawyer...with distance learning by Peter J.

Loughlin, Esq

The world is a wonderful place filled with all sorts of possibility.

In a day and age when opportunity abounds, I'm surprised to find many people who give up on their dreams.

I'm here to tell you, as a person who really has 'been there and done that' that you can become anything you want to be!

I actually became an attorney using nothing more than the Internet, my brain, and my burning desire to succeed. If you have a burning desire to succeed too, let me share with you the four biggest lessons from my experience.

1. No goal is too big.

I can't begin to tell you how many people said to me "Become an attorney by going to distance learning and online law schools? Yeah, right!"

My license to practice law proves these doubters wrong.

If you're like me, you have skeptics in your world too. People who tell you that your dreams are too big. People who tell you that distance learning won't work. People who say the Internet is a fad and look at you as if you just announced you were moving to Mars.

Here's my advice. Don't listen to them. Listen to your heart.

The Internet has literally kicked open the doors of academic and Career opportunity. I'm not talking about a little bitty crack of opening. I'm talking WIDE open.

You can be anything you want to be. Settle for nothing less than the excellence that lives in your heart.

2. You need a plan of action.

When I first set my goal, it seemed SO overwhelming. I was a sort of a pioneer then, really. The resources that exist now were very hard to find at that time—so I made a plan.

Every day I would do only that day's tasks, seldom looking at the whole for fear of feeling overwhelmed. I'll admit it was overwhelming sometimes, but I just wouldn't allow myself to deviate from the plan.

Whenever I needed a little lift, needed to feel that I was in fact making progress, I would look at my 'to do' list from the previous week or month. Seeing all I had accomplished made thinking about accomplishing more seem realistic.

My second piece of counsel to you is simply this. Take your project one step at a time and you can do literally anything you set your mind to accomplish.

Concentrate and focus only on what needs to be done today. If you can do that without constantly worrying about the enormity of your goal, you'll soon find that you are living your dream.

3. Take full advantage of all resources within your grasp.

Did you know that you hear more news in one day than your great-grandparents heard in one entire year!

While this may sound overwhelming, and the words 'information overload' may be jumping into your thoughts, I say this to encourage you.

There truly is a world of information at your fingertips. It has been well said that information is power. I wonder if you realize the power the Internet bestows on you?

Right here, right now, you can decide to change your future. You might decide, as I did, to further your education using distance learning and online resources. Hey, I became a lawyer! Why not you?

You might decide that today is the day you are going to start building your career and enter the ranks of the legal profession.

On the other hand, you might decide that today is the day to go into any career that appeals to you, the choice is all yours. All of the resources you need to accomplish your career goals are literally at your fingertips and within your heart.

4. Take action today.

No matter what you decide, let me encourage you to take action on your plan today. A car sitting in a driveway is impossible to steer. Only when the car is moving can it be directed in the way the driver desires.

You are in control of your life. If you really want to be a lawyer you need to take action, you need to make that choice. The choices you make today will have an effect on what and who you become six weeks, six months and six years from now.

Let me encourage you once again. Dare to dream big. Make solid plans that will take you step-by-step in the direction of your dream.

Make the most of the resources at your disposal. Don't let the critics get you down.

Do these four things today and your tomorrows will take care of themselves.

Distance Learning Makes Life Easier

By Matthias Reightman

Do you have a desire to continue your education but are just not sure how to fit it into your busy schedule? Or perhaps you want to finish a degree but live too far from a college to make the drive for classes. Whatever your situation, do not be discouraged. Distance learning makes it possible for almost anyone to take a class or work toward a degree regardless of where they live.

Distance learning is becoming increasingly popular in higher education. Educators and administrators realize that people are busy and that gaining a traditional education is not realistic for everyone. Distance learning makes it possible for people of all ages to complete a variety of classes toward degrees of many kinds.

Distance learning can take place over the internet through online courses or by correspondence through the mail. Having internet is definitely helpful for distance learning, but it is certainly not required. All you really need is an address and a mailbox and you can be well on your way to finishing a degree.

If learning from home sounds like it might work for you, begin to research different colleges and universities that offer distance learning as an option for students. A simple internet search or a search at your local library should be able to highlight appropriate schools for you in no time. You will have to consider too what kind of degree or program you hope to study in. Don't rush into studying something until you have explored many options.

A great thing about distance learning is that you can continue with the rest of your life while taking classes. You do not have to stop working, change jobs, or stop spending time with your family and friends. With distance learning you can take as few or as many classes as you want to. Some times in your life may be too busy for more than one class but at other times you may be able to fit in two or three distance learning classes. Distance learning is flexible and it allows you to be in control of your schedule. You will have to look hard to find an option that is as flexible and accommodating as distance learning.

Is there a specific program or degree that you have always dreamed about studying? If so, now is the time. Let distance learning make your educational dreams come true while keeping your life simple and easy.

An advisor to many people thinking about gaining more education, Matthias Reightman is an advocate for distance learning. See if distance learning is right for you by visiting
