Airfare–Not Always Fair! by Elizabeth Wares

Need a vacation but don't want to stay around town? Want to go somewhere exotic, somewhere different? Want to fly but worried about the airfare? Sourcing the cheapest airfare available has been made easier with competition growing between travel agencies as people realize that a vacation need not be all that expensive. Airfare can be a hindrance to the best of vacation plans but it need not be. With so many travel companies vying for your business – securing cheaper airfare is a given!

The airline companies set airfare price, with travel agencies just higher than wholesale price. The advertised price of an airfare does not contain any government taxes or duties so extra charges such as these will need to be added into your airfare budget.

Aside from the airline companies and travel agencies setting the price, there are many things, which can affect airfare price. The most important factor that can influence price is the final destination. Another factor can also influence the ticket price but not limited to:

The kind of airline class you opt for – do you want comfort or want to go economically. The location of your seat – window or inside seat. The time and day on which you want to travel. How near you book to your departure date – booking nearer to your departure date may boost your airfare when you secure a last minute deal. Whether your airfare is part of an all inclusive holiday package. More often than not for these all-inclusive packages, the airfare has been given with a massive discount as a contract between the resort or hotel, the airline and travel agent.

Therefore, if you want to save your money, you should consider the above points before you commence with exploring your airfares that fit within your budget. Shopping for airfare is a difficult job, especially when you are looking for cheapest rate. You can make use of the Internet, as last minute deal websites are being developed and there are some great bargains to be had, particularly in regards to airfare rates. Checking frequently and subscribing to these last minute deal websites will make sure that your vacation is long lasting, and memorable without the extra burden of supplementary expenses for airfare! So check around for last minute deals.
