Car Insurance – Inflated Quotes Costs Consumers Millions Yearly

By Gary Hollins

Even though lower car insurance quotes are occurring through competition from warring insurance companies vying for new business, as well as increasing online quote houses, millions of consumers are still paying dramatically more for their car insurance than they have to, to the tune of millions every year, and hundreds of dollars per household.

Online quote houses, such as Insurance-Info-Center.com, states on its site that on average, customers can save $451 on their car insurance by comparing car insurance quotes with them.

But these typical savings won't affect the average consumer unless they take action and compare their rates, both online, and with national and local agents in their area.

All auto insurance is not the same. In one study by a major insurance company conducted between 1999 and 2004, a six-month auto insurance policy fluctuated between a low of $481 to a high of $586. This translates to a year policy costing as low as $775, to as high as $1256 for the exact same coverage.

This means one thing: for consumer to save, find good service, and get a good rate on their auto insurance, they need to shop, shop, shop.

It may seem simple, but according to studies by a major online carrier, only 20% of the people surveyed actually get more than one quote before buying their insurance.

Experts agree that getting a mix of quotes from large as well as small insurers will give you a good mix. Insurance-Info-Center.com lets you pick from a wide variety of national insurers through their automated providers.

Experts also suggest that, even with the convenience and speed of online quotes, you should consult local providers as well.

Save Big Money On Your Car Insurance – Now!

By John Francis Amberden

What if I could save you 10–20% of your yearly automobile insurance which can literally be hundreds of dollars? Very few people shop car insurance companies, yet we price shop in grocery and department stores every day.

It is not that difficult. Do a little research (5 - 10 minutes) on the type coverage you have and I will help take you forward. I have no real secret here for some of you; BUT, make yourself do the following:

1. Get online and on the phone and get at least 7–10 estimates on car insurance. The more estimates the better. You will be amazed at the discrepancies in pricing. That alone will probably result in major savings for you. Make sure that each company is providing quotes on the same coverage.
2. Make sure the automobile insurance companies know you are getting estimates from others. It may help you get an even better rate.
3. Use the highest automobile insurance deductible YOU can afford. In other words, if something happens to your car, how much would you be able to pay out of pocket BEFORE your insurance money kicks in?
4. Eliminating full coverage on an older, paid off car may or may not be the best plan for you. If the car is not worth much, it is generally better to reduce your coverage. Analyze the cost of full coverage and determine if you want to eliminate that portion of the insurance. How do you analyze? Ask your current agent and one or two of the ones you are getting quotes from. That is it! It is just that quick and easy!

START RIGHT NOW!!!

Look for automobile insurance companies via Google and use your local yellow pages. Do it. Don't delay. And start enjoy the savings right now!

Let me know via comments how much you saved. Good luck.
