Chartered Feelings

Public transport system in Delhi is very poor when compared with other metropolitan cities. Traveling in a DTC bus or a blue line bus during peak hours is really nerve rattling experience. Unlike other cities, Delhi does not have mass rapid transport system. Due to absence of a reliable convenient and efficient transport system office goers in Delhi are compelled to have their own arrangement to commute to their office with comfort. Yes, they have chartered their own conveyance. Here comes the concept of Chartered Buses. This is an unique phenomenon which exists only in Delhi.

Once you become a member your seat is assured. By boarding the bus, you can ensure that your well-pressed dresses are intact till you reach home in the evening. There is no anxiety over whether the conductor remembers your balance before you get down as you pay your monthly charges in advance.

Unlike the conductors in blue line buses, if the conductor is well behaved and speaks English, dont be surprised; he may be a highly qualified employee of Central Government or any PSUs. Sometimes, he happens to be your neighbour (!).

Once your enter into the bus you feel a homely atmosphere, as all the faces are familiar to you. You get Prasad on every Tuesday. You may get special gifts during festivals if your are a regular member.

Your absence may not be felt in your office, but it is certainly being felt by your co-members. This is the place where from politics to recent developments in information technology are discussed in threadbare. It also acts as a symbol of equality as it is a common scene that a subordinate staff is sharing jokes with a highly placed official.

If the traffic police stops the bus enroute, the conductor immediately gets down with some cash in hand. They call it as monthly tips. They have to dole out some special tips during festivals like Deepavali.

While getting down from the bus in hurry, if you slip either wallet or any other belongings in the bus, dont be in panic. Next time when you board the bus, you will get your things safely as the same would have been picked up either by your co-members or the conductor of the bus and would be handed over to you promptly.

Some members always occupy the last row of the bus. They are called back benchers. They engage themselves in playing cards by placing a brief case on their lap. Passengers who are not members are called guests. Actually these guest are paying guests and they have to vacate their seat if any member demand so.

Some members used to sleep throughout the journey. They are called sleeping beauties.

If anybody pretended reading news paper seriously by burying his face in the news paper, he might certainly be a causal visitor, he is doing so to avoid getting ejected from the seat by any regular member.

These are all only a tip of an ice berg. If you want to experience more, travel atleast once in a chartered bus. I am sure you wont be disappointed.

The Luxury Of Traveling With Yacht Charter Companies

By Clinton Maxwell

Luxury is something everyone deserves from time to time. Such an indulgence can make a vacation a truly rejuvenating experience. One of the best ways to get the luxury of the rich and famous to fit into your budget can be yours through yacht charter companies. These companies specialize in creating custom sailing vacations that redefine travel. Planning Your Luxury Trip With your budget in mind, it is easy to plan a chartered yacht vacation. Companies often have a fleet of sailing vessels that can accommodate parties of various sizes. You may want to make it a more intimate trip with only close family. There are charters that can be rented for as few as two people. These include either a sailboat or motorboat and can come with or without a crew and captain to sail the ship for you. If you choose not to hire a crew, you will have to show that you are knowledgeable of sailing and can handle the ship competently.

The next part of planning is to determine your starting and ending ports. This could be a place close to home and sail in one area or start and finish at two different ports. Generally, starting and stopping in the same port will save you money and is usually more convenient.

You can also fly to a destination far from home and then sail another exotic sea. There are luxury yacht charter companies that cruise the Caribbean and Mediterranean seas or around Alaska, the Panama Canal, or anyplace you can imagine.

Determining the type of cruise is another aspect of planning a chartered yachting trip. You can have as little or many crew members as the ship will hold. A captain takes all the worries out of navigating and onboard housekeeping services make it a real vacation that rivals the finest hotel services. You can also choose to have a chef and service crew as part of your vacation package.

If you like the idea of knowing what it is really like to sail, but don't want to risk safety, you can charter a sailing cruise that puts you in the role of deck hand. A competent crew will direct you as to your "chores" for keeping the ship in top shape and on course. Destinations & Ports of important Charter Companies One of the greatest benefits of choosing a chartered cruise as a vacation is the choice. You will most likely have a rough itinerary and that can be affected by weather. However, you are flexible in deciding how long you want to stay in a particular port and if you want to add or subtract stops along the way.

Your yacht is your hotel that travels with you. There is only one flight and one hotel to book! Then you take all of your luggage and unpack it just once to enjoy several days of new destinations.

If you have never experienced cruising before, a chartered experience is a great way to get your feet wet. It is different from cruise lines with thousands of guests because the people on your ship will be your friends and family. The personal touches of a chartered trip will help you develop your love for the sea with all the best benefits of commercial cruises.
