Connecticut: A Great Place To Have Your Wedding

By Michael Brito

If you are engaged and considering destinations to celebrate your wedding, Connecticut can provide many luxurious opportunities. For couples with families and friends in the Boston and New York City areas, historic Connecticut offers an attractive halfway point for guests to gather. If you reside in Connecticut, you know that your state offers nearly four centuries of rich American history, a lovely and romantic backdrop for any couple just starting out life together.

With historic sites such as Mystic Seaport, Old Saybrook, and Yale University within its borders, the state of Connecticut has so much to offer visitors, particularly those seeking a colonial flavor or a New England touch with the luxury and long tradition of towns like: Greenwich, Westport, New Canaan, and Darien to name a few. Indeed, if you are planning a Connecticut wedding your choices for wedding venues are enormous and range from colonial era Congregational churches to 21st century state-of-the-art reception sites; as well as fabulous weddings on the water. Yes, the state's rich combination of modern highways and old post roads allows for visitors to go from historic site to modern setting within minutes, a perfect combination for couples seeking to blend city style with country grace.

Getting Started

When planning a Connecticut wedding, it can seem somewhat overwhelming as to where to get started. Thanks to the internet, you have a world of helpful resources at your fingertips, information that can help you plan everything from finding a local floral designer, hiring a photographer, locating a church, and so much more. Indeed, you can save yourself plenty of time and money by doing much of the groundwork right online. Connecticut is also home to some of the country's top wedding planners so if you find you are short on time and long in the to-do list rest assured that they can guide you in the right direction without wasting your time or resources.

Laying the Foundation

If you live outside of the state, but want to take advantage of all that Connecticut has to offer, consider researching the various bed and breakfast inns scattered across the state. A bed and breakfast inn can be a charming and comfortable place for your guests to stay and, in many situations an inn can host a wedding right on their grounds. Your guests could enjoy the wonder of staying in a Georgian revival home or silk baron mansion while attending a ceremony held on an expansive lawn or inside of a formal English garden.

If you are planning a larger wedding your guests could still stay in one of Connecticut's many historic inns while your ceremony is held underneath the majestic spire of an 18th century countryside church. Indeed, if it is a vintage feeling that you want, you could arrange to have a horse drawn carriage bring you and your espoused to the church and then onto the nearby mansion, castle or yacht club offering all of the modern amenities you desire. What a great way to enjoyably combine the best of the old with the finest of the new!

Finalizing Plans

Many couples are utilizing the internet well beyond simply searching for information. Indeed, savvy couples are creating complete web sites to help guests in so many ways. Your site, which can be hosted through companies who specialize in wedding planning, could include the following helpful information:

- Directions to the wedding and receptions venues with detailed maps included.
- Detailed Information about accommodations. If you strike a deal with an inn purveyor, you can instruct people to mention the "Smith party" in order to secure the best price. Your out of town guests may be delighted to stay an extra night or two in a historic bed and breakfast inn, especially if you made basic arrangements with the owner ahead of time to reserve rooms for your wedding guests.
- Links to gift or bridal registries. You can make it easy on your guests by setting up detailed bridal directories at your favorite stores. Consider providing links on your web site to each store's online directory to make buying a gift as easy as a couple of clicks of the mouse.
- Links to local sites. On your wedding site you could include several links to key local sites of interest. Share information about museums, parks, shopping, restaurants, entertainment and the arts, etc.
- Say it with pictures. Yes, you can update your site after your honeymoon by including wedding and reception photographs, honeymoon pictures, and more.

A Life Together

Truly, your Connecticut wedding can easily combine New England elegance, colonial history, and modern conveniences together to form a rich and memorable tapestry. Take advantage of all that the Constitution state has to offer to you and your espoused by planning an event filled with all of the wonder that historic Connecticut has to offer.

Important Steps In Your Wedding Program

By Ken Donald

You have probably heard of others who have used one. A wedding program. Do you really need one to manage your upcoming wedding? It all depends on how big a wedding you are planning. A regular wedding has thousands of things and stuff who needs to be taken care of on the right moment. If each thing is not done at the proper time and place, the whole wedding can get side tracked and course a lot of trouble.

You need to take care of wedding invitations in good time before the wedding. The invitation of your guests is very important to get done early in your preparations. Things like wedding flowers for decoration, the wedding dress for the bride, ordering a wedding band perhaps, etc.. The list goes on and on. Planning your wedding can be difficult on a piece of paper. You really need a plan where every aspect has been thought of.

You also have to think about wedding favors, wedding rings and wedding accessories. Not to forget your honeymoon? Where should you go on this special occasion?

You have to think ahead. Try a search on the internet for wedding programs. You can find information in abundance. It is all out there on the internet online: wedding music, wedding photographers, wedding ideas and wedding cakes, etc.

With the wedding process written down on paper step by step, you are in control of the situation. And you know that you can relax and even enjoy the process from beginning of planning and all the way to your grand wedding day.

If your budget is a bit tight and your wedding program must save money where it is possible, you can make your own wedding invitations, and perhaps you know someone who can make the wedding flowers for example. The wedding party could be held at a less expensive place. The great thing about doing many things yourself is the personal touch you wedding will get. Great idea for creative people.

A wedding program is the most important step to stay on track from start to finish. Planning a wedding is no easy task to manage. Get a wedding program, and make that special wedding day perfect.

Thank you for your time.
