Cruise Ship Honeymoons

By Burt Cotton

Each year, thousands of couples make the decision to get married. If you are planning on becoming one of those individuals, then it is likely that you and your new spouse will plan a honeymoon. When it comes to selecting a honeymoon destination, you have a number of options to choose from.

Honeymoons are often thought of as vacations. In a way, the only difference between a family vacation and a honeymoon is romance and the lack of children. Honeymoons are supposed to be a fun, exciting, memorable, but private time. Instead of vacationing with the whole family, a honeymoon often only involves the bride and groom.

As previously mentioned, you have a number of different options when it comes to planning your honeymoon. Many newlyweds schedule their honeymoons at popular beaches, ski resorts, or other secluded areas. Did you know that you can also have a honeymoon aboard a cruise ship? Cruise ships are increasing in popularity, but still many individuals do not consider them as a vacation option.

One of the reasons why cruise ships are rarely thought about when selecting a vacation destination, let alone a honeymoon, is because of their cost. It is no secret that cruise ship tickets are expensive, but this cost should not prevent you from having the perfect honeymoon to go along with the wedding of your dreams. If you are concerned with the cost, you may want to try obtaining discount cruise ship tickets.

Most discount cruise ship tickets can easily be found online or with the assistance of a travel agent. Discount cruise ship tickets are nice, but they are often hard to come by. Discount cruise tickets are sought after by many newlyweds and other vacationers. If by chance you do come across discounted tickets, you are urged to purchase them while you still have the chance.

Even if you must pay full price for the cruise of your dreams, it is likely that you will still receive a good deal. Despite the large cost of tickets, it is important to examine the activities available onboard and the length of the cruise. The longer the cruise and the more services available, the more expensive tickets are likely to be. If you take the time to figure out all the services that are included and the cost of overnight accommodations, you may see that cruises aren't all that expensive after all.

Cruise Ship Honeymoons

Once you have made the decision to spend your honeymoon aboard a cruise ship, you will have to book reservations. As mentioned above, if you are looking to save money on your honeymoon, you are encouraged to search for discounted cruise ship tickets. If money is not an option, you may want to search for cruise ships that have romantic settings and romantic destinations. When examining cruise ship destinations, you may want to take into consideration the possibility for romance at each destination. Since your honeymoon is supposed to be a romantic and relaxing time, you will want to select an environment that will keep those feelings alive. Cruise ship destinations are located all around the world. Popular destinations include Alaska, Hawaii, the Bahamas, the Caribbean, and Mexico. To find the perfect honeymoon cruise, you are encouraged to select a cruise that offers stops at destinations of your choice.

In addition to taking cruise ship destinations into consideration, you are also encouraged to examine the type of cruise that you wish to set sail on. Multiple cruise lines have ships that are targeted to specific groups of individuals. These cruises often include cruises for adventure lovers, the whole family, or couples. As a couple, you should be welcome on any cruise. If you are looking for a private, romantic, and intimate setting, you may want to avoid cruises that are targeted for family vacations.

Before booking your honeymoon trip on a particular cruise ship, you are urged to examine what you want and need out of your trip. Doing so will enable you to select the perfect cruise ship for you and your new spouse.

What Type Of Alaskan Cruise Will You Enjoy?

By Sarah K. Jenkins

Alaska is nothing short of a majestic wilderness that is one of the very last frontiers left in the world. Here, you will see all that is natural with the beautiful peaks of mountains to the crystal waters of the ocean. You will also see some of the most amazing wildlife, perhaps even migrating if you travel during the summer months. Of course, there are the Alaskan communities to stop in and see with their quaint towns and local culture. If you will be traveling on an Alaskan cruise, you have several options to take into consideration.

·Consider Inside Passage Cruises. For about a week long, these cruises will take you out and back in to the same port. They allow for some of the most beautiful choices. You will find them leaving from locations such as Vancouver as well as from Seattle.

·The Gulf Cruise. Another option offers a one way cruise to Anchorage. This cruise will take you up close to glaciers as well as mountains and allows you some of the most amazing picturesque views.

Cruise Ship Honeymoons

·The Small Ship. Another type of Alaskan cruise is a small ship cruise. These allow you to travel into some of the more remote locations with a smaller ship. You will see glaciers, whales and even bears. The wilderness lover will truly enjoy this type of cruise.

There are plenty of cruise lines that offer cruises of each of these. You are going to find one that offers just what you are interested in, of course. It is always best to plan your Alaskan cruise as soon as possible as some of the cruises will fill up quickly, keeping space limited. Remember that Alaskan cruises only span from May to September and in that short time there is much to see and do.
