Discovering Words That Are Guaranteed To Sell

By James Brausch

Many folks have asked for a list of words that can be used in ad copy to increase profitability. Of course you can discover your own magical profit words with Glyphius, but I thought I would list a few that I have discovered.

First of all, I want to cover something even more powerful than a word that was discovered in the Glyphius research. The lowly period. Putting that dot at the end of each line of your ad copy has an amazing 76% positive correlation with profitability. It is the highest scoring token found in the Glyphius database. That high correlation also indicates that it is THE most often mistake made by those creating poor copy. Use it. Period.

Other punctuation that have a high correlation with profitability include the ampersand (&) and the percentage sign (%). The exclamation point (!) is good, but not nearly as good as the period, ampersand and percentage signs. Use it more sparingly.

Here are some other words that I have found with nice high positive correlations with profitability:

Are Or >From Up Find Over In Save Online Check More Compare Me Of Price Guarantee
Order Guaranteed Less One Prices Direct Local Has Discount Top Area Am All Full Buy Stop
On

Many of those have obvious implications. We all know that "guarantee" or "guaranteed" belong in the above list. Everyone feels more comfortable when they see a guarantee and know they can get their money back if they aren't happy with the product.

Many of the others in the list are mystifying. Why would "am" or "on" be profitable words? Of course, that is always a problem with statistical analysis. We can find out what words do, in fact, have a high correlation with profitable ad copy, but we can't necessarily know the answer to any "why" question. So, I'll leave it up to you to come up with theories about why these words sell so well.

Discovering Words That Are Guaranteed To Sell

The fact is that they do. Known profitable copy uses these words in statistically significant quantity as compared to known unprofitable copy.

Try using them more often in all of your sales copy.

Guaranteed Car Loans - Get Your Loan Asap

By Sarah Williams

If you want to get guaranteed car loans even with bad credit, then scroll below for some pointers on how to avoid the credit inquiring pitfall.

Guaranteed Car Loans: Get a copy of your credit report.

Purchasing a copy of your own credit report can help you get guaranteed car loans. A lender can pre-approve you for a guaranteed car loan by faxing him a copy of your current credit report. If the first lender rejects your request, you can go ahead and apply at different lenders until you find one that accepts you.

Guaranteed Car Loans: One inquiry is better than two.

Before completing the guaranteed car loan process, the lender would most likely perform a final perfunctory check on your credit report. But that should be okay since it's only going to be one inquiring on your credit record instead of two or three. Remember that the more credit inquiry you have, the greater the chance that your credit rating will drop.

Guaranteed Car Loans: A purchase is not an inquiry.

When you purchase your own credit report, it won't be considered as an inquiry. So by doing this, you avoid adding more damage to your credit. This is why in guaranteed car loans it is always a good idea to know what your credit report is in advance. What's more, if you have your credit report before applying for guaranteed car loans, you can check it for any errors.

There are several online auto financing companies that can provide you with guaranteed car loans. Below are some examples of these and their guaranteed car loans programs.
