There's nothing quite like the feel of soft, smooth, silky skin, and many people strive to get their skin looking and feeling this way. There are many ways to remove hair from both the face and body, some of which are more effective and last longer than others. For those looking for a long term solution to silkier skin permanent hair removal methods could prove ideal. These solutions offer long term results so you won't have to worry about regular hair removal in order to maintain your smoother skin. When you use permanent hair removal methods you can enjoy the convenience and the confidence of great looking, smooth skin through effective hair removal that will last far longer than simply shaving or using a removal crème. With today's busy and fast pace of life it is difficult to keep taking time out to remove face and body hair - and with permanent hair removal methods this is a problem that can be alleviated. Wherever you have a hair problem this type of removal method can help Depilatory solutions have come a long way over recent years, ranging from one touch electrolysis to laser hair removal. Whether you want to remove facial hair, pubic hair, or any other body hair, you can enjoy a great finish when you opt for permanent removal. Whichever area of the face or body you have treated for removal of hair, this permanent method will not only leave it looking and feeling great, but will also ensure that you have minimal hassle and effort when it comes to maintaining that great look. Hair removal methods have come a long way over recent years, and are now more advanced and effective than ever. You can enjoy excellent results with minimal discomfort or side effects when you opt for permanent removal of hair, and you can get on with you life without having to concern yourself with regular re-growth. The cost of these cosmetic procedures The amount you will pay for the permanent removal of hair from your face or body will depend on a number of factors, ranging from where you have to hair removed to the type of method you decide to use. Laser treatment and electrolysis are both popular and effective permanent methods of removing hair, and the costs can vary. However, when taking your budget into consideration you should bear in mind that the cost of less permanent hair removal may be less but the frequency of removal is higher hence the costs can quickly add up. So, in the end the permanent method could prove not only more effective and convenient but also better value for money. Of course, you have to take your budget into consideration when selecting a hair removal method, but it is wise to weigh up the costs over the long term as well as the immediate costs in order to make the right choice.

Hair Removal – Choose From Nine Methods

By Mike Jones

Use this overview to re-examine your current hair removal method to ensure you are using the best possible method FOR YOU!

#1: Depilatories

Depilatories as a hair removal method are quick and inexpensive. However, they can be harsh on the skin and messy. Results: About 2 weeks.

#2: Electrolysis

In most cases this hair removal method is permanent. It can be painful. Also it could be expensive depending on the size of the area to be treated. It is important to get professional treatment to avoid skin damage. Results: Permanent.

#3: Hair Inhibitors

They are easy to use with any existing hair removal method (excluding depilatories). They reduce and even stop hair growth. Results: After 3 to 6 months, significant reduction in hair growth, in some cases, permanent.

#4: Laser Treatment

Now with CoolGlide technology, all skin types can be treated. In most cases this hair removal method is permanent. There might be mild discomfort. It can be expensive depending on the size of the area to be treated. It is important to get professional treatment to avoid skin damage. Results: Permanent.

#5: Shaving

This is a quick and inexpensive method of hair removal. It has to be repeated frequently however. Extra care must be given to the skin. Results: From 1 to 3 days.

#6: Sugaring

Sugaring hair removal is inexpensive and generally kind to the skin as sugaring pastes are natural. It can be painful. Results: 3 to 6 weeks.

#7: Threading

This hair removal method is used mainly for eyebrows and facial hair. A person skilled in threading should perform the method. Results: Up to 3 weeks.

#8: Tweezers

Tweezers are good for isolated hairs and some facial areas. It is an inexpensive method of hair removal although good quality tweezers are needed. Results: From 3 to 8 weeks.

#9: Waxing

Waxing hair removal is quick and inexpensive. Some waxes can affect the skin. It may be painful depending on a person's toleration level. Results: From 3 to 6 weeks.

Conclusion:

It must be stated that no hair removal method is ideal. Everyone is different when it comes to pain toleration, hair growth rate, hair texture, hair color and skin sensitivity. A method that works fine for one may not suit someone else.

However, by examining this list you can select the method that is least painful, most economical, and convenient for you as an individual.
