Ever called a Psychic, I did yesterday and it was quite an eye opener. by Mike Green

I have been intrigued by psychics and what really goes on when you call one of these lines. So yesterday I called one up and was surprised if not a little shocked by what happened. First let me say that I have an opened mind but im no sucker, in fact ive been on the net for 10 years and I know almost every scam that has been tried and only a very small amount have ever got me sucked in and having a psychic reading on the internet to me was just about as risky as it gets. But the opportunity came up for me to write an article for the newspaper I worked for and I thought great lets see what this is all about, so here I go.

I logged on and typed in a site that many people I know use, its called www.psychicguild.com and is a large organization that basically sets the standards for internet psychic sites. I thought I may as well start at what many people say is the best site when it comes to psychics. I was quite surprised when the site first loaded because I was expecting to just see a few psychics and their contact numbers. Instead it was more like a spiritual life site with heaps of content on all areas of spirituality. I mean they had psychics of course but there is all sorts of information on wellbeing, health, motivation and its all free. They do charge for some astrology reports and of course psychic readings but everything else is free.

So I proceeded to the psychic area and was able to read all about each psychic, how they became psychic and what they specialize in. I didn't realize there are so many other readings you can get besides psychic readings. Others like Tarot readings, crystal and clairvoyant readings to name a few. I also checked out their policy information which was quite in depth. They offer a money back guarantee if you are not happy with your psychic reading, which I must say surprised me, so I rang their customer support line and they reassured me that if I was not happy with the call I could get a refund. They also had a 5 minute free offer that I could use so I rang that line and spoke to Jenny. Well what a call, I asked her about my love life, job opportunities and of course when will I be rich and just to be sure I asked her what type of a person I was. Just for the record im single, I am not rich and im an average sort of guy and I am happy.

So away she went. She first started with my situation saying that although I thought I was happy,(by the way I didn't tell her anything besides my name) i was making the most of an average life and let many opportunities for increased happiness pass me by. She went on to say that there are two people who think im worth going out on a date with but I give all the wrong signs. She continued to say that I had a great job but could do better and that there were many other opportunities in my life that I didn't take notice of.

Well that was all fine but in my mind much to general, it could have applied to anyone and I told her, which she laughed about, a psychic with humor, now this was getting interesting. So she gave me more detail about these two prospective women in my life and not only described them but named them and went on to even tell me why they liked me. I don't want to sound stupid because im not but on hearing that I nearly dropped the phone. She was spot on. I thought who the hell is this lady, I only rang for a joke and to write my newspaper column and now here I was having my life laid out on a table and being told of a life that I was letting pass me by.

Well ill save you my personal details but all in all I was quite amazed by the call. Since then I summoned up the courage to ask Sally in my office out and we have had a ball. ive since called Jenny back and came clean on why I called but that hasn't removed my surprise that psychics are not making it up, not on this site anyway. They have a code of ethics and many of them are trained counselors.

So there you have it, I call up for a funny story and the jokes on me. Then again the call has now changed many things in my life for the better, so I suppose I have had the last laugh in the end.

You can call and get your own psychic reading by logging onto www.PsychicGuild.com.

PS. Make sure you try the free am I psychic test its very interesting.
