Fabulous Beach Vacations Appeal to the Whole Family

It's time to plan the family vacation and you're running into trouble again. Just once you'd like to find something that everyone will love, but you don't think you can find it; after all, you have the twins who are six years old, a terminally bored teenager, and a preteen daughter whose idea of the perfect vacation is a trip to the mall. Your husband loves to golf, and your idea of a vacation, frankly, is anywhere you can just relax and take it easy for a change!

You could try asking the whole family where they'd like to go for a vacation, but you could get answers like this:

- „« Somewhere I can go shopping for some really cool stuff!
- „« The beach, so I can get some surfing in.
- „« A golf resort would be nice I'd like to improve my handicap.
- „« Can we go someplace where there are rides? And lots of games?
- „« I think the kids should learn something on this trip; let's go someplace cultural.

There's no place that meets those standards anywhere in the world better than Mexico! If you want to everyone to enjoy themselves and spend a week or two without ever hearing, „There's nothing to do,“ then Mexican beach vacations are the perfect choice!

Sun, sand and surf

Family beach vacations have always appealed to every generation, and for good reason. There's something universal about the pull of the ocean. Warm, white sands that are soft under your feet and lapis blue waters that are crystal clear invoke relaxation and a sense of peace and renewal that can't be found anywhere else. Mexico has thousands of miles of soft white beaches that are family-friendly with miles of gorgeous surf.

While you relax with a Pina Colada and a good book and enjoy the sea breeze, the twins can be dashing in and out of the tide, collecting sea shells and admiring hermit crabs as they dart into their holes. Your daughter can work on her tan or stroll over to one of the booths where locals wait to cornrow her hair.

And don't forget the terminal case of boredom – he's trying out a surfboard that he rented from the cabana at the hotel. Tomorrow he plans to try his hand at windsurfing or parasailing. Your husband is catching everything on film for later.

And when evening rolls around –

When night falls there's still plenty to do on a beach vacation. Most resorts offer a choice of restaurants from family-friendly pizza parlors to fine dining with a great wine cellar. Or you can explore the local town for a sampling of local cuisine that's sure to surprise and delight you and your children. If you enjoy seafood, there's nothing that beats finding a local seafood joint with seating on the beach for atmosphere and fun.

After the sun goes down, take a stroll on the beach at night and look for sea turtles if the season is right. These magnificent creatures are an unforgettable experience for young and old alike.

If you head to the boardwalks that abound along most beaches, you're sure to find games and rides for the whole family. Your six year olds will be delighted with a Ferris wheel ride with a spectacular view of the ocean while your daughter gets her caricature done by a local artist.

When you step away from the beach, there's still plenty to do

Beach vacations in Mexico don't stop at the edge of the water. All of those fabulous beach resorts are located near wonderful little resort towns that have colorful bazaars and market districts, so the shopping is fantastic! Remember to do some holiday shopping, and look for a few colorful pieces of clothing to show off when you get back home!

Mexico is full of cultural and historical bounty, so don't forget to visit some of the rich historical treasures of the area while you're visiting. Your family will be amazed by the impressive size and grandeur of Mayan ruins just miles from the beaches. These ancient ruins are a reminder of the area's rich heritage and shouldn't be missed.

When visiting the ruins take the time to admire the villages and towns you pass through; Mexico is a rich mix of heritages. Descendants of the Maya, Inca and Spanish settlers all make up the rich heritage of today's Mexico.

Meanwhile, back on the beach –

After a few days of sightseeing, shopping, and golfing even the most energetic family members will want to relax, and that's why beach vacations are the best thing going – total relaxation!

Close your eyes and think about the beach and you can almost feel yourself relax, can't you? Imagine your children building elaborate sand castles in toasted white sands and decorating them with delicate sea shells they've collected along the shore. Picture your teenagers lazily swimming on the rolling waves, ducking under the crystal-clear blue of tropical waters to watch fish flicking about around their legs.

Beach vacations can also give you the opportunity to learn something new and exciting together. Try parasailing – there's nothing as exhilarating as sailing through the sea breezes as you look down on the coast from the air like a seagull! If you've always wanted to try sailing, a beach vacation will give your whole family the opportunity to go out on a sailboat for the day.

There are so many tremendous opportunities to do things when your family takes a beach vacation to Mexico. Whether you want to enjoy the sand and sun, try a little bit of adventure, sample great local foods and wines or make the kids squeal with laughter, you'll find more than enough to fill every day on our fabulous Mexico beach vacation packages!

Finally, keep in mind that, since family vacations usually mean traveling in the summer months, a Mexico beach vacation can be a great bargain. Since these months are considered "off season" in this area of the country, you'll be surprised by just how affordable a really fabulous stay on a stretch of white sand beach in Mexico can be while your kids are on summer break.

3 Keys To Success With Coastal Vacations

By Sara Nightingale

The question, "How can I become a successful Coastal Vacations distributor" is probably the most common regarding Coastal Vacations. Soon after joining the program and spending their hard-earned money, many people discover there is much more to it. Yes, it's true that discount vacation packages can sell themselves. However, it does take some effort on the part of the distributor to ensure that every prospect becomes a customer. There are many aspects of successful selling. However, many people miss the essentials. Without the following three essentials of selling, you will find it difficult to become successful with Coastal Vacations.

Make Yourself Known

There is no doubting the reputation of Coastal Vacations. The organization has been in business for a quarter of a century and has helped many people realize their dreams. While the Coastal Vacations name will carry plenty of weight in your package proposals, it won't draw people unless they know how to find you. It doesn't matter how wonderful a business venture is, if people don't know you exist, there is no way that you can expect to become successful. In this age of the Internet Superhighway, having a website is a vital tool to bridge the gap that exists between you and prospective customers. A customizable website is part of the Coastal Vacations Success program. Do with it what you will and soon the people will follow. The beauty of building a website is that people can discover who you are at any time of day or night.

Know Your Product

One mistake that people make when starting a business is that they neglect to learn as much as they can about what it is they are selling. One definite perk of the Coastal Vacations program is that you have the opportunity to go on fabulous trips. Of course, the trips can serve as a chance for you and your family to spend time together. However, there is another important reason for you to indulge in the chance to take a cruise or spend a week at a beach resort. You learn firsthand the quality of your product. If you never use the program yourself, it will be very difficult for you to convince other people to do so.

Another way to increase your knowledge of Coastal Vacations is to use the tools that are available to you. Coastal Vacations Success helps to maximize your knowledge by providing invaluable tools that you can access 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Flash tutorials are the most popular form of training available with Coastal Vacations. They can get you off to a good start and help you to refresh your strategy. Many programs provide Flash tutorials. The Coastal Vacations Success program is unique in that there are also resources available, such as e-books, that provide insight that is crucial to become a success with the program.

Keep the Money You Make

One negative reports of many Coastal Success programs is that they are set up so that you have to share profits. It's easy to see how this can take away from your profits. If the thought of having to lose money before you make it sounds strange to you, you are not alone. People all over the world are joining the Coastal Vacations Success program and realizing the "true" meaning of direct selling: you make the sell and keep the profits.
