Why There a Financial Strain on You and how you can fix it!
Topics in May 15th 2004 Release.

- 1.) Reasons Why there may be a Financial Strain on you.
- 2.) What does having a Financial strain means to you.
- 3.) A extremely powerful way you can overcome your Financial Burdon.

In today's edition of Hi-Tech-Savings, I am going to talk to you about why the average person is so strained for finances, what that means to you, why it is so important to not be in such a position, and how you can overcome your barriers with your current financial position.

Take a deep breath, relax, and come into my world of wealth, with a way to make you money and nothing but blue skies and dreams.

 Reasons Why There May Be a Financial Strain *****

I would like to pause for just a moment, just to recap on what we talked about last issue.

Credit cards, gas cards, house payments, doctor bills...The list goes on and on. Just think how much money we go through over time and how much money the average person owes. Kinda puts someone in the mind frame of, "How can I win instead of losing". Folks, its not over till you give up on yourself. If your still struggling to make ends meet, then you still have hope for survival yet.

Does this seem familiar to you? It should, because most everyone you know has probably either been in this position or will be sometime in their natural life. Who knows, mabey your in the same position right now. I don't know if you are or not, but mabey some of what I can say to you, will help you survive in this world that somehow seems to revolve around money.

It isn't really funny, but there was a picture I seen in a magazine last week. It was a cartoon picture of the Capital Building in Washington DC turned Upside down. Getting poured in the bottom of the building was millions of dollars, and coming out the top of the building was 1 single dollar. I took a few minutes and looked at picture and realized what it was telling me. Once the government gets done taking out their money, and politicians get their pay and the list goes on, the average citizen sees very little of this money. Sad to say, but there are people out here in our very own country, who need the help.

Getting back to what I was saying about Financial Strain. The average household in the United States brings home around $25,000 annually. I don't know about you folks, but in my eyes that isn't right. We spend 40 years of our God given lives working, to bring home a measly check that can barely buy our toilet paper. In comparison to our Credit Cards Insurance, doctor bills, food, gas, and other bills, what does that leave in your pockets? Not much is the answer!

A small list of reasons that could cause Financial Strain:

- 1.) Child Care
- 2.) Unexpected Vehicle Problems
- 3.) Overdue Bills
- 4.) Children In College
- 5.) Job Security

What does having a Financial strain means to you**

What would happen to you right now if you lost your job and everything was riding on that job. If you would come home that day jobless, would you been in a real world of hurt. Could you quit your job anytime you wanted to and feel that you would be able to survive the rest of your life without having that job? I would say no, because that is why we have a JOB right? Wrong! We have that job because we want to feel like we are making a difference. Don't get me wrong, the job helps with the money, which is why we are there ultimately, but what if you was able to make more money, doing less, and in the comfort of your own home?

Hey....More and more people are starting to work from home everyday now, because they are there to help the kids, and be their own boss. You wouldn't fire yourself right? Exactly! There is a serious amount of job security when you are working for yourself and that is the very reason why people do it. When you have children in college, have overdue bills that you need to get payed, and then on top of that your car breaks down, you are probabally going to have a nervous breakdown. Seems to be vicious circle don't it? Did you know that approximately 50% of marrages end because of problems with finances?

What is the #1 thing people want more of? What is the one thing that makes the world go around? What is the last thing we need to lose? and finally, what is the #1 thing that most people won't work for? You guessed it!! The answer is MONEY!!!

 A extremely powerful way you can overcome your   Financial Burdon. *****

Your asking yourself right now, "Well what can I do about my problem?". First off, lets not think about your financial strain as a problem, because problems have no solution. Issues are a better way to think about it, because issues can always be resolved. This issue is all about getting yourself in the right frame of mind to resolve the issue at hand.

You feel you are worth more than you are getting payed? Right?

Searching For Auto Tech Schools

By Andy West

Time has passed and the same old job situation has you down. The life you are living is much like a sad country song. It's not what you had imagined, and you don't like your day job one bit. Maybe it was a friend that shared with you the power of auto tech schools, or it could be that you have done your homework and know what auto tech schools can do for someone who is interested in a career change. Regardless of the reason, the time has come to give auto tech schools a serious look, and find out what it is they have to offer, and which schools fit your needs best.

It is important to look only at the Automotive Technology schools that are near you, because commuting is too much of a hassle for most students. The fact is that most auto tech schools require long hours of hard work. This is not conducive to major commuting. For this reason it would be wise to set a standard; to look at those auto tech schools that are no more than 1 hours drive away from your current home. This is the first step in narrowing down the process. Of course if you look at auto tech schools online, that would eliminate any commute whatsoever.

Next it is imperative to look at what you want out of the programs you may apply to, or you are thinking about attending. What degrees, certifications, or other things do you want out of auto tech schools? Thinking about this in advance will also help narrow down your search to the ones that best fit your criteria. Locating the best auto tech schools can be a challenge if you live in a rural area, but it is important to keep your needs in mind, no matter how small the selection of auto tech schools. Further, it is important to look at the ranking of the auto tech schools you are looking at by the people that have attended the school. Is it a high-ranking school in terms of satisfaction and instruction? Is it one that offers students a real chance at learning about the industry? Answering these questions will give you a better perspective of which auto tech schools will work for your needs.

Most importantly the program choose must have a strong career placement program. Finding auto tech schools that offer strong career placement should not be hard, since most of these schools count this as one of the top priorities of the school. After all if one is not getting a job after attending the programs offered, what is the point in making the career change? The auto tech schools or tech schools are simply in existence to give people a chance at a better life, by providing a solid education, and then supplying a list of employers to the student for consideration.

The auto tech schools with the strongest career placement rates should be at the top of your list for attendance possibilities. Career placement rates are simply calculated by taking the total number of graduates, and getting the number of auto tech school graduates that are placed into a job. This will give you the placement percentage. Most auto tech schools use this simple formula to calculate career placement rates. If a school has 100 graduates, and 80 are placed in jobs, the career placement rate for those auto tech schools would be 80%. This isn't a bad rate, given that a few students will surely change their mind and decide a different career path.
