Fun Bridal Shower Favor And Games Ideas

By Owen Andrew

The bridal shower is traditionally a day that celebrates the bride and the beginning of her new life.

The shower is usually hosted by the maid or matron of honor or a close relative and organized by the bridesmaids. As a group, the bridesmaids and maid or matron of honor decide on the décor, food, games, and location of the event.

Bridal showers range from extremely luxurious to sweet and simple. In general, guests should include the mothers of the bride and groom; the sisters of the bride and groom, and all of her intimate friends. The most important person to think about is the bride, and what she would like or want, because the bridal shower is her day to celebrate the beginning of a new life with those closest to her.

Remember that one of the greatest aspects of bridal games is that it helps people relax and interact more; this is especially important if you have a group of people unfamiliar with each other. Here are a few ideas for possible bridal games and activities:

Bridal Shower Favors and Games

The bridal shower is usually given by the bridesmaids and hosted by the maid of honor. Together with the bride, they come up with bridal shower favor ideas and games to play during the bridal shower. There are a number of favors, and it is traditional, like the wedding, to show your appreciation of your attendees and their generosity with bridal shower favors.

Bridal shower favors

There are a number of ideas for bridal shower favors, and many options. Bridal showers may or may not be themed, so that should be taken into consideration before buying the bridal shower favors.

Bridal shower favor ideas include bottle openers and stoppers, candles, bath or soap sets, customized personal luggage tags, wine, edibles, like chocolate and mints, bookmarks, pink and black lace potpourri sets, handbag holders, bookmarks, compacts, and much more. Like wedding showers, bridal shower favors can be customized if the bride so wishes.

After the bridal shower favors have been handed out, it is time for games. These can consist of anything from guessing games, where the guests answer questions to show how well they know the bride to bingo.

Bride trivia games are often excellent game choices for bridal showers and consist of trivia about the bride. An example of a trivia game would be if each guest has a writing tool and some paper, and the maid of honor calls out the questions. At the end, you total up the number of points and have a winner, or in some versions, first and second place.

Bridal bingo is always fun and you can either create a board yourself or go to a specialty wedding site, like americanbridal.com, and find everything you need to have a fun game of bingo. Small prizes are given to the winners, and everyone has a great time.

Scrap booking is another enjoyable way to while the time during a bridal shower, and is a fun, creative way to build a book of memories for a bride to be. Notes of advice to the bride can be included, as can pictures and small mementos. Everyone can be given a page or theme, and create their own memories of the bride in that section.
