Giving Thanks for Online Opportunities?

Have you noticed that during the holidays a lot of us start reflecting about our lives more? We think about the meaning of life, our hopes and dreams, things we regret, and things we're thankful for. I've actually caught myself recently feeling thankful about my computer and all the opportunities being online has brought into my life personally and in business. Have you?

I have to admit it. Even though I've been online for years, I am still impressed daily by the expansiveness of the internet. There are millions, or is it billions, of websites, information, entertainment, financial opportunities, and such resources and opportunities that are available to us online! If you're anything like me, then you get just as excited as I do when you receive a good friend's email, a great business lead, a shopping bargain, find an interesting ezine to subscribe to or discover an intriguing website you haven't seen before.

This reminds me of a TV commercial I saw once where the fellow that was surfing online had a warning message come up on his computer screen and it said something like "You've now reached the end of the Internet". He was using a high speed internet connection that helped him speed through the entire internet until supposedly he actually reached the end! He looked incredulously at the message. Wouldn't you?

Giving Thanks for Online Opportunities?

Wouldn't it distress you if you ever had that message pop up on your computer screen? That was it? No more new stuff? What do you mean I've reached the end of the internet?! No way, no how!

Fortunately, we have an endless resource at our fingertips, full of opportunities for personal and business enrichment. And there's no end in sight.

Think about it. Isn't chatting instantly online, or sending and receiving email messages nearly instantly so amazing? The online opportunities for strengthening and expanding personal and business relationships are incredibly vast, and they have become an important part of our lives.

And business and financial opportunities are everywhere! You can hardly check your email or go website viewing without getting some pitch about a business opportunity. Sometimes these are unwelcome, or a scam. Sometimes it's quite the opposite and good opportunities arise.

There are some truly legitimate and worthwhile resources and opportunities for folks who wish to establish an online small business of their own. There are ways to make extra money online, perhaps even a great deal of money and reach towards financial independence. Starting an online business is not easy, but if you use the right resources, learn the ropes, and persistently develop your business, it can be fun and lucrative.

Yes, these are interesting and exciting times online. There's always something new to discover, someone new to connect with, and new opportunities with every click. So, this holiday season, along with giving thanks for all of your offline blessings and opportunities, also remember to give thanks for your online ones.

Home Business Online Opportunity - Take The Survey Test Now

By Oliver Turner

Are you looking for a home business online opportunity? The internet offers a multitude of home work business opportunities if one is willing to look. One of these is online marketing. More specifically, survey taking.

Lots of big retail chains will pay money to know what you—the consumer—is thinking, giving you a great work at home business opportunity. The internet is full of online businesses looking for people just like you to take surveys and some of these online surveys can pay you as much as $100 per survey, how's that for a work at home business. Five 10 minute surveys and you could be making up to $500 per day with these home work business opportunities.

A friend of mine used to do this all the time. At first I thought it was absurd. Why would someone pay you to take a survey? But if you think about it, you'll probably realize that you've probably taken a survey in the recent past on the phone. The only difference being, they didn't pay you!

All you have to do is type in "online surveys" into your favourite search engine, to realize this home business online opportunity. But be careful, some of them may be hoaxes. You need to choose carefully which ones you will do.

Many of them give coupons or gift certificates instead of money. You also need to make sure that they service the country you're applying from. For instance, if you are from Canada, and doing a survey from the United States, you may not be eligible for the merchandise they give for doing the survey.

Any time you try to make money online, you have to read the fine print. Make sure that the home business online opportunity you choose won't see you getting ripped off, or wasting your time.

Starting a home business can be very rewarding, both financially and socially and what better way to make money online than spending 10 minutes of your time filling in surveys.
