If you are traveling to Hawaii in February, here are a few annual local events for you to consider adding to your itinerary.

When you are on the Big Island make a stop at Hilo, home of The Hilo Mardi Gras. Also known as The "Hula Capital of the World", Hilo loves to put on a parade. This is their annual New-Orleans style parade, festival and party all wrapped in one. The streets are full of elaborately costumed dancers, festive music and local foods.

One of the longest running events in Hawaii is the Punahou School Carnival. This annual Honolulu event is a high school fundraiser that started in 1932 and now it attracts upwards of 50,000 people. The carnival is known for its local delicacies that includes malasadas, Hawaiian plates, Portuguese bean soup and gyros. This is a wonderful opportunity to participate in the local Hawaiian culture.

Visit the spot in Waimea, Kauai, where famous explorer Captain James Cook first landed in Hawaii. The Captain Hook Festival commemorates the event with entertainment, canoe races, games, and food. The highlight is the mini-marathon race.

The Carole Kai Bed Race brings participants from all over the world to race down the streets of Lahania in Maui, Lihue in Kauai and Honolulu in Oahu. This two-day fundraising event feature wildly costumed bed-racers for the amusement of over 100,000 onlookers.

Watch top rated longboard surfers in the two-day Buffalo's Big Board Surfing Classic at Makaha Beach, Oahu. This is traditional Hawaiian surfing, long boarding, and canoe-surfing.

Vacation Packages...just book-it...and enjoy it.

By Mike Yeager

Vacation packages can be of different kinds, depending on the destination. Las Vegas is the place to escape from all sense of convention known by all as "The Gambling and Entertainment Capital of the World." In recent years the attractions have expanded to include theme parks, family activities, excellent shopping, spas and world-class golfing. The whole world comes to Vegas to let loose and, in turn, you find yourself happily lost in a skyline from all the great cities of the earth. If you didn't know better, you might think it was some strange desert mirage and Who knows, Elvis might still be in the building!

Disney vacation packages, Hawaii vacation packages, and all inclusive vacation packages, can offer you a great deal. How about Orlando vacation packages? A good travel agent can also help you with all this. Some package will handle virtually everything. For the same price you would pay for a hotel, a vacation rental home can offer you a lot more. Aside from the traditional accommodations, you will often get more space and amenities, a great alternative for family vacation package with kids.

Vacation packages in Hawaii, includes the best honeymoon location in the world. No place else on Earth is as romantic. With almost limitless attractions and activities, this is the perfect location for family vacations. It offers something for everyone – sports enthusiasts, beachcombers, adventure seekers . . . you name it!

Whatever you're looking for, a well planned vacation package that includes covers all your concerns might be just what you're looking for.
