

Help is just a mouse-click away

This Free E-Book is brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!

Help is just a mouse-click away

By John Karnish

Help is just a mouse-click away by John Karnish

There is a new internet marketing web-site that charges you over $200 to join. The main benefit or "unique selling proposition" of this site is that professional internet marketers personally answer your questions and give advice on how to make money with your site.

Is this worth $200? I don't know. However I'd just like to point out that you can usually get the same information, from successful internet marketers for free. There are a quite a few discussion forums where you can find the answer to just about any marketing question you have. Usually the moderators of these boards, along with many contributors are successful web entrepreneurs.

Don't be afraid to ask advice from other people on your web-site or your sales letters. Successful webmasters aren't born, they're bred from many trials and errors, until they find what works. Why make some of the same mistakes they made when just asking for a little advice can point you in the right direction?

Not all forums are of equal caliber. Most are just filled with ads and are a complete waste of your time. These are some of the better forums I found on the web and I'm sure they'll be able to help you out. I know they've helped me.

Remember to make sure that your posts are relevant to the topic of the forum.

Here are my favorites.

Anthony Blake Online

<http://www.ablake.net/forum/>

Dog Byte Marketing Forum

<http://homebusiness-websites.com/cgi-bin/index.cgi>

Internet Marketing Discussion Board

<http://www.bizweb2000.com/wwwboard/index.html>

Marketing Success Discussion Forum

<http://www.jvmarketer.com/discussion/>

Publicity & Promotion Discussion Board

<http://www.free-publicity.com/cgi-bin/alk.cgi>

The Trump Internet Group General Business Discussion
Forum

<http://www.the-illuminati.com/board/index.cgi>

Willie Crawford's Marketing Forum

<http://www.williecrawford.com/cgi-bin/index.cgi>

2 PC Annoyances and How To Solve Them!

By Jim Edwards

2 PC Annoyances and How To Solve Them! by Jim Edwards

I have a love-hate relationship with my computer.

In fact, often I love to hate my computer!

It will do things I know even the great Mr. Gates didn't intend, and it usually does them at the least convenient time (like when I'm on a deadline or in a hurry).

Rather than the usual whining and doing nothing about it, I've decided to share a couple of things that previously annoyed the heck out of me and the solutions I found to help you avoid these same problems.

Disappearing Internet Explorer Status Bar

The status bar at the bottom of the Internet Explorer web browser serves many purposes.

It allows you to hold your mouse over a link to see where the link will take you.

It enables you to see a page's loading progress as you wait for it to download.

Most importantly, the status bar allows you to see the little gold "lock" symbol that lets you know you've made a connection to a secure server (very important to know before you input credit card data).

For some inexplicable reason, from time to time, this status bar disappears from my browser.

Also, the toolbars at the top tend to move periodically and mess up my "system" for surfing the Internet.

Now, it's not the end of the world, but it really ticks me off when things change and I didn't change them! If this ever happens to you, here's how to literally "lock" the toolbars and status bar in place so they don't disappear or move again.

First, close all your Internet Explorer web browser windows except for one. If the status bar doesn't already appear in the window, go to "View" and then click "status bar."

Also, make sure you have all the toolbars arranged the way you want them.

Next, place your mouse over a blank spot on one of the toolbars at the top of the Internet Explorer browser window.

Right-mouse-click and a menu will appear where you should check the option "Lock the Toolbars."

Then, while holding down the key, click the "X" in the upper right corner of the window to close it. This will set your selection.

If you ever need to change your toolbars in the future, simply right-mouse-click on the toolbar and uncheck the "Lock the Toolbars" option, make the changes, and then re-lock the toolbars to keep them from moving or disappearing.

Missing File Extensions

One of the biggest pains in the neck involves opening Windows Explorer, viewing a list of files, and not being able to see the file extension (.doc, .txt, .html, etc.) for each file.

For some reason, Windows considers this classified information!

To make the file extensions show up, click "Start" then "Control Panel." Double-click "Folder Options" then click the "View" tab. Scroll down the list and uncheck the box that says "Hide extensions for known file types."

You will now see the file extensions any time you open up Windows Explorer.

Jim Edwards is a syndicated newspaper columnist and the co-author of an amazing new ebook that will teach you how to use free articles to quickly drive thousands of targeted visitors to your website or affiliate links...<http://www.turnwordsintotraffic.com>

Help is just a mouse-click away

This Free E-Book has been brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!