Holistic Junction Featuring School of the Week by C. Bailey-Lloyd/LadyCamelot

Holistic Junction's featured school of the week is Clayton College of Natural Health. Clayton College, a Nationally-leading, distance learning school, affords students with education and training in becoming a natural health practitioner. Why? They understand that Holistic health and nutrition are among the most exciting, rewarding career choices today.

Clayton College offers multiple degree programs such as Bachelor of Science, Masters in Science and Doctor of Philosophy in Natural Health and in Holistic Nutrition. Additionally, they offer Certificate Programs in Natural Wellness, Herbal & Iridology Studies as much more.

Clayton College of Natural Health was founded over 20 years ago by Lloyd Clayton, N.D. To date, this multi-versatile college has over 20,000 students and graduates globally.

Clayton College of Natural Health has a simple but profound mission:

"Teaching each student how to be healthy and how to teach others to be healthy."

How does Clayton College instruct its students? Clayton College allows students to develop their own learning environment, the ability to study at ones own pace and affords the ability to integrate studies into personal and professional lifestyles.

By assigning each student his personal faculty advisor, Clayton College expedites student learning progress. Clayton College always provides support & assistance to pupil education through educational material, and helps to ensure timely completion of individual courses and programs. Futhermore, Clayton College quickly responds to student inquiries and is readily available by phone, fax or email during normal school hours.

Clayton College is not only an exemplary school, it is a rapidly growing educational portal that extends educational opportunities by offering various financial plans, including the potential of grant awards.

Holistic Junction Explains Why Healing Arts and Massage Schools are Vital to the Medical

Community

By C. Bailey–Lloyd/Lady Camelot

With over 2 million consumer hits monthly, and 13,000+ page views per day, Holistic Junction discovered the crucial need for promoting Healing Arts and Massage Schools for several reasons.

Opening the doors for opportunity one student at a time, Holistic Junction believes in preserving fundamental health care portal to prospective students and future healthcare providers by creating a community–based site founded on the principles of attaining overall wellbeing – mind, body and spirit.

A holistic approach, Holistic Junction understands core values in achieving and maintaining a holistic lifestyle that provides essential nourishment for complete physical, mental and emotional health.

Holistic Junction holds high regard to alternative medicine as it is comprised of a broad and unique spectrum of techniques, modalities and medical systems based on varying cultures and even ancient healing therapies.

Holistic Junction Featuring School of the Week

According to the World Health Organization, alternative medicine (also known as 'traditional medicine') is increasing in use and popularity. In China alone, herbal preparations account for 30–50% of overall medicines. Additionally, in Europe, North America and other industrialized regions, over 50% of the population have used complementary or alternative medicine. 158 Million Americans used complementary medicines in the year 2000 itself. Overall, the findings of the World Health Organization also show that the global market for herbal medicines presently generates over $60 Billion annually and is on the rise.

So why does Holistic Junction promote alternative, healing arts and massage schools? Holistic Junction understands how the world is continually evolving into a newer, efficient and more health–enhanced society. By providing a venue for safe, effective and affordable alternative treatments through higher education and training programs' support, Holistic Junction educates general public on alternative methods by increasing knowledge of alternative, healing arts and massage schools via interactive communications.

More than just a promotional directory, Holistic Junction is a unique web–based community of people and businesses from all around the globe who aspire to and believe in positive spirituality, higher consciousness, healthy living and environmental awareness. Thus is the reasoning why Holistic Junction supports and promotes cognizance of these basic, but highly effective training programs and schools.

Holistic Junction is designed to allow individuals not only to find the appropriate alternative, healing arts and/or massage school, it is truly a wonderful and affordable 'family' portal that is geared toward issues dealing with the 'whole' and positive pathway to holistic insight and information.
