Having own website is one of the most effective Internet marketing methods. It may give you a lot of visitors if you manage to get a high ranking in search engines.

Search engines have great importance to online business. When people look for something on the net they usually use search engines to type in keywords, and a search engine returns a list of matches to the request from its database. If your web page is listed within the first 30 matches (perhaps up to the first 100 matches) you will get traffic. But if it's ranking lower than that your chances to receive visitors are slim. Thus, it's a matter of great import to optimize your page so to be listed near the top position.

Needless to say you have to submit your page to major search engines to be included into their database. Only after that people will be able to find your site through search engines. It's the first and very simple step you have to do.

More difficult is to gain some knowledge about meta tags. While human eyes see and enjoy pictures and text of your page, a search engine examines HTML - the code language used to build web pages. You may see what a search engines sees if you click in your browser View then Source. The meta tags should go inside the header tags (between and ). If your page doesn't have correct meta tags search engines will give it low ranking.

Most important meta tags are keyword meta tag and description meta tag. Here are some tips to write them correctly.

You should choose keywords which are relevant to your web page, i.e. which are present in the body of your page. If you put keywords that are not in the body of your page, your page will be ranking low. If your site has nothing to do with adult material, do not use adult related keywords. Keep in mind that search engines give priority to the first few words, so concentrate on your main keywords and put them in the beginning of keyword meta tag. You may use up to 1000 characters for your keywords, but only first 250 characters will be considered. To boost relevancy put as many keywords as you can among the first 25 words of the body of your page. Your keywords should also be in your title tag and description meta tag.

Description meta tags are normally displayed by search engines together with your page title in the search results. So it's wise that the first words of the description capture the attention of searchers. Keep description to no more than 25 words and include keywords in it.

It's extremely important to write meta tags properly. But actually it's only a small part of optimizing your page because search engines do not rank web pages merely based on meta tags. Surprisingly, but different search engines treat meta tags differently and what is good for one engine may be not good for another one.

In fact, page optimization is quite an art. Many people enjoy the process of mastering this art, but many find it too complicated. If you fall in the latter category, there are programs available at reasonable price to help you.

Routing traffic to your web page is incredibly important in order to make money online. However, you probably have noticed that getting your web page noticed and returned as a high ranking result from the search engines is difficult. However, to make money online, there are a couple of tips you can use that will help you increase the traffic to your page.

How To Get Your Page Ranked High In Search Engines

First, you will need to do a little research to see where your page ranks in a variety of different search engines. When you know this information, you will be able to take action and become better than your competitors whose pages are being returned as higher relevant results. In order to make money online, no matter where you rank in the results, if it is less than number one you have some work to do. So, take a look at all the web pages that are ranked higher than yours and see what these pages have that yours does not. Evaluating your competition will help your Web page become stronger and more competitive, something that is important to your bottom line.

You need to do this kind of research for all the different keywords that pertain most to your Web page and that people search for the most often. You want your web page to rank high in the results for a number of keywords, so be diligent about researching what is other web pages are doing and what you can do to make your page be returned higher in the results.

One great way to improve your web page listing for a variety of keywords and phrases is to use keyword articles on your web page. This will allow you to provide useful information for web surfers as well as include keywords that will help your page get noticed.

When it comes to keyword articles, it is not difficult to write them or have them written. First, you need to have a list of the most popular keywords and phrases people search for, and then write articles that include useful information that states the exact keyword phrase multiple times. When someone searches for that particular term, your page will be returned as a high result as long as you are outdoing your competition. However, when it comes to outdoing your competition regarding keywords and search engine results, make sure you are providing relevant, useful and pertinent information. If you are doing that, when people get to your page they will be more likely to stay.

Finally, if the keyword articles get your web page ranked higher in search engine results as they should, do not feel as if they will stay that way. There is more competition on the Web every day, which means you will have to be diligent about continuously tracking your competition, what they are doing, and where your web page ranks in the search engine results. You may have to make changes according to your competition, but this is part of business.
