How To Make Sure Your New Cat Will Be At Home In Your Home

By Niall Kennedy

Buying a cat is a big decision. Do you have time to look after her? Is your home or apartment suitable for a pussy cat? Are there any health issues you need to think about, and are your family members ready for a new addition to the family? Find out from someone who has plenty experience.

Are you thinking that you would like to purchase a cat? If so, you may want to take a few minutes to find out if you are in fact good cat owner material. Finding out that the beautiful pussy cat isn't for you is something that you don't want to have to do once you bring him home.

Health First

One of the many reasons that people have to find new homes for their pets is because of allergies. If you haven't been around cats much, make sure that you take the time to spend a few hours around one. Also, insure that none of your close family members or friends have the same problem.

Is your lifestyle right for a pet? Cats are less in need of constant attention unlike the dog but they still need to be kept from being lonely and bored. If you work long hours, consider getting two cats so that they can keep each other happy. If you have a bored cat, you will have a bad cat.

Does your cat fit within your home? If you have kids in your home, the litter box will need to be placed in a place the kids can't get to it but the cats can access it easily. You'll also need a litter box, food dishes, toys and a scratching post.

What type of cat do you want? Sure a kitten is nice and fluffy and you can instantly fall in love with it. But, kittens need to be trained too. And, a great reason to go with a kitten is the fact that he doesn't have any bad habits just yet. But, you will likely need to have them altered and de-clawed as well. You'll need to pay for immunizations too. On the other hand, an older can is a good choice for those who want a cat with less energy and one that is already trained to the litter box. Older cats have had most of their immunizations (will still require boosters though) and they will likely have been altered already.

Where To Buy Him

If you are not worried about the breed of the cat, then the best place to look in the local humane society or the animal rescue in your area. Most cats in these organizations are healthy and sweet kittens and cats. And, since the organizations are overrun with them, you can help to give one a home. If you are looking for something specific, a cat show is a great place to go. Many of those there will bring kittens along for sale. If you can't find them there, the exhibitors will be able to tell you where you can find them.

Great! You have your cat, now what? Don't be surprised if it takes some time for the cat to settle into its new home. And, make sure that you do what you can to help it by providing it with all the things it needs. Put all of his items in the same place everyday.

If you follow these simple tips you will find it will help your new cat to make himself at home in your home.

Living In Harmony Or At War? Having More Than One Cat In Your House

By Niall Kennedy

I have two cats and I can't imagine that either of them would want to live without the other. They live like brother and sister. And I can't imagine me living with just one cat either.

For those that love cats, having just one is never enough. Instead of having just one cat to call your own, you can have several. Those who have more than one cat realize that this is a good thing not only for the cat owner, but also for the cats as well. Cats like other cat company.

Are you considering getting another cat? Many people wonder if their cat would be okay with another being around. If your cat is alone for a long period of time, then he may like having a cat around. Older cats will often develop a new lease on life when there is a new kitten introduced to the home. Some cats do like their solitude though and territorial issues can cause a problem.

New kittens mean having to go through all the frustrations with training all over again. You'll also need to consider the added expense of all the vaccines as well. IF you add an older cat to the home, this too can be a challenge because the cat will need to adjust to the new home as well as to develop behavioral or health related problems.

When choosing another cat to bring into your home, you do not have to choose a cat that is the same breed as the one that you have. You may want to take care to choose the right combination though. For example a Rex with his silly behavior with a standoffish Russian Blue may not be the right combination. Cats with similar traits can work well together. The Himalayan Persian and the Maine Coon breeds are so friendly that they are likely to adapt to any even some of the most demanding breeds.

Set up an area for that cat before bringing him home. He may do better if you allow him to stay in one area until he adjusts. Allow him to settle in for the day before you introduce him to the rest of your family.

You'll want to allow the original cat some time to get used to having the other cat in his home. This may take some time. For a smooth transition, make sure he doesn't have to share his own litter box, his food or his toys with the new cat. There are health reasons as well as feelings that should be thought of here. Cats who are forced to share a litter box may actually decide to create their own area for a private box.

There are many reasons to have more than one cat. For many of those reasons, you'll be able to have that much more companionship with more cats.
