How To Succeed In Network Marketing (Part 2)

How To Succeed In Network Marketing (Part 2)

by: Kevin Thompson

So, you've found a company that you truly believe in. You've researched it and learned the business plan.

Now it's time to build your business.

This is the part of networking that many people have real trouble with...talking to others.

Why?

- 1)They don't fully understand and believe in the company
- 2)Fear of rejection
- 3)Fear of failure

That's why you must do your research first. That's why you must fully believe in the opportunity.

If you already know that you are doing somebody a favor by showing them the opportunity and you are confident that you fully understand it and can answer any questions that they throw at you, then: you will not be afraid of rejection or failure you are simply showing the opportunity and looking for the people that get it you are weeding out the non-believers you are searching for partners that have the same goal that you do you are building a team that wants to succeed you will not mind when somebody decides that they aren't interested...just thank them for looking and do not mention the business to them again, when they see your success they may still come back for info (nobody wants to be hassled after saying no)

Who should you show this to?

How To Succeed In Network Marketing (Part 2)

You should show the opportunity to everyone that you can realistically contact, period.

Remember, you've done the research and you believe in the opportunity. If you don't, you are just hoping to get lucky and you should not be bothering people.

Don't pre judge people, let them all come and see for themselves. It's a numbers game. You are weeding out the people that don't get it.

You are finding solid partners who will take the time to learn the business themselves and will believe in the opportunity just like you do. People like you who will make it happen, who will be happy to contact everyone they know. People who will not be discouraged when they get a few "no thank-yous".

A trained, knowledgeable and motivated downline is a productive downline. You don't need or want the dead weight.

How do you ask somebody to look at the opportunity?

Simple. Tell the truth. There's no need to hide anything, no need for tricks.

Tell them you have found a great new idea for a home based business that works. Tell them you have fully researched it, fully believe it is an opportunity that can make significant money, and that you have put your personal money where your mouth is by signing up.

But most importantly, tell them that you are simply showing the opportunity and will not pressure them nor will you mind if they don't like it...it's not for everyone. All you want is their opinion as a friend....and mean it!

What if they will not look?

That's fine. Don't bother them with the opportunity again, they are still your friends. It is also important to understand why some people react so negatively to a business opportunity. they are afraid to make the commitment because they are afraid they may try and fail they don't believe they've been burned before by a less ethical sponsor or program they are happy with their 9-5 job and really don't want a change they feel you are pressuring them so you can make money off them

No hard feelings, let them know that you'll show them if they ever change their minds and leave it at that. Your business should never depend on any one person.

In Review:

Learn and research the opportunity

Believe in the opportunity

Show the opportunity

This is not rocket science...make it happen!

How Network Marketing Can Help You Build A Second Income Fortune

By Alvin Narsey

We live today in an age of inflated money— where every necessity and luxury costs us more each year. To live well, we need a larger income. For many, running harder and faster in the rat race of a `job' yields that bigger paycheck. At some state whilst jogging the marathon of life, one comes to the realisation that running harder for someone else means we are making them richer and only wearing ourselves down.

We stop. We think. There has to be another way. We quit our jobs. We begin to look at running a business. A home based business can be your key to financial success, and you don't even need to quit your day job to succeed. The ideal business is a network marketing business. This is your ride to financial success - a second income spare-time fortune.

A part time income opens new worlds of freedom to you. Better vacations, improved education for your children, better healthcare. Over a period of 5 years you can reach the stage where your financial freedom allows you to leave your 9-5 for an even more fulfilling life.

Starting a network marketing business is the key. Must you be a genius or a millionaire to succeed? No. All you need is the desire and courage to follow the step by step procedures given by most reputable network marketing companies. We all need a mentor, someone who is doing what we want to do, or has achieved in life what we have always dreamed of. You need this same `coach' in succeeding in network marketing. This coach is referred as an `upline' sponsor. When you begin your research into joining a company, find out who the movers and shakers are in the organisation. Talk to them. Typically they are passionate and motivated, and will be willing to let you join them in a flash of a second.

Better still, you can start your network marketing business for a few hundred dollars. Even if you work slowly, but with dedication and passion in your spare time, you will begin to receive regular income. We are not saying you need to quit your job, in fact you are better off keeping your present job while expanding your income with those lucrative, useful, helpful spare time dollars.

Do not waste time - get started on building your spare time second income fortune now. Begin what may be the greatest adventure of your life by starting to research the various network marketing companies. Set aside 10-20 hours a week over the next five years and you will have a residual income that will lead to a greater life.
