How to Make Money at Home with Your Computer

How to Make Money at Home with Your Computer by Michael J. McGroarty

Writers, read this article carefully, it holds opportunity for you.

In just a second I'm going to reveal to you a really easy way to make money at home. But first I want you to think about something.

What is the secret to making money at home? If it's so easy why isn't everybody working at home?

Because they don't believe it's possible. If they think of a really easy way to make money at home, they immediately start thinking up reasons why it can't possibly work. In no time at all they completely talk themselves out of it, without even giving it a try. Then they get up each day and go to work at a job they absolutely hate.

Making money at home, or anywhere else for that matter is actually quite easy, if you just follow the number one rule of business, which is:

Solve a problem.

There are a multitude of problems that need to be solved every single day. If you can find a way to solve only one of those problems, you will have a successful business idea. That's if you don't talk yourself out of it.

How to Make Money at Home with Your Computer

In the hustle and bustle of the busy lives that we lead these days, time is getting more and more difficult to come by. I wish I could buy 3 or 4 hours a day from some of the people that I see foolishly wasting theirs. That's right, I'd be willing to pay good money for just a few hours each day.

O.K. The wheels should be turning now.

I just presented you with a problem. Can you solve it for me? Yes you can! Of course you can not sell me time, that's impossible. But you can save me time, which is actually better.

This is my problem, and if I have this problem so do lots of other people.

I happen to know that if I write articles just like the one you are now reading, that I can drive people to my websites and some of them will send me money. So the more articles I write and post on the internet, the more visitors I get, and the more money I make. Sad as it may seem, I am motivated by money.

The only problem is I can barely find time to write the articles because my websites keep me busy filling orders, answering e-mail and taking peoples money. Not to mention all the other things in my life that consume my time. Like a full time job, and a full time family. Oh yeah, then there's that nursery in the backyard. It eats up a few hours too, but then again it makes a few thousand bucks.

So I've been thinking. If there were somebody. Just one person whom I could e-mail my articles to, one at a time, and then that person were to post them to all the websites and the article announcement services on the net, I would gladly be willing to pay money for that. Certainly not get rich kind of money, but money.

Are you still with me? Good because I want to ask you a question. Do you think that I am the only person on the net that has this time problem? Not hardly. There are thousands of us, if not tens of thousands.

It's a big problem for those of us that have some really good things going on the net, but not quite enough to walk away from our careers.

The person who stands up and solves this problem gets to take home the cash.

You don't need a website or credit card processing. You could accept payment through PayPal. All you need is a computer and a little bit of e-mail experience. You would have to be dependable and honest. You are those things, right?

All you would be doing is receiving articles via e-mail, and then posting them to the many websites and mailing lists that accept such articles. You would have to do the research to find the best places to post such articles. The secret to offering a service such as this is to make sure you are posting to the best article announcement services, because if the writers that hire you don't get results, they won't use your service any longer.

Could this be the start of something big for you? I've seen crazier ideas make lots and lots of money. I had a crazy idea a whole bunch of years ago, and I made tens of thousands of dollars, just because I let myself think outside of the box.

How did I make tens of thousands of dollars? It was long before the internet, but what I actually did was solve a problem for a very small group of people. It's actually a valuable lesson that I've included in my E-book, "How to Make Thousands of Dollars with Homemade Booklets".

As a writer, you could actually create a homemade booklet that shows people how to provide services such as this. Business people around the world are short of time, there have to be a thousand services that others could provide that would free up some of their time, and at the same time put more money in their pockets.

Becoming a Computer Trainer

How to Make Money at Home with Your Computer

Have you ever attended a computer course at a computer training center and really thought about much money they make on teaching students? I know when I first started taking classes it just amazed me on how much money the training centers make for teaching many of the most popular Microsoft Office courses offered today. Of course there is big money in certification courses, but the majority of the home and small business users just want to learn how to use products like Microsoft Word, Excel, Outlook FrontPage and Access. That is where the computer trainer comes in to the equation.

You see, many people do take courses at computer centers but many don't like to or have to travel to the centers. Some students don't like the large classroom environments so many don't even go. Don't even get me started on Computer Based Training (CBT) and Web Based Training (WBT) methods of teaching. Don't get me wrong, computer training centers are good and very attractive to the public. Many of the centers offer very good courses and have very knowledgeable instructors. The problem is they can't offer one-on-one assistance to the customer like personal computer trainer can.

The computer training business can be a very profitable and enjoyable business for a new business owner. For example, not too long ago I attended a course myself and realized I was sitting in a class full of students. After calculating the number students by the price of the course, I realized the center just made over $2000.00 for only seven hours of work (the class could have been done in half that time). That is good money for a computer trainer that could have gone on-site and conducted the same training. Not only did the center make over $2000.00, they did it for only one level. There were four more levels for the same course. Someone is making some very serious money, don't you think?

Whether you know a lot or a little about computers, you can become a computer trainer in not just Microsoft Office products but in a variety of computer related fields. My advice is finding your niche by looking at not only your talents but your passion. If you do decide to become a computer trainer, nothing can stop you if you have the drive and desire to be successful.
