"How to protect your Ebook download pages from being stolen!"

By Dirk Dupon

If you're currently selling Ebooks or software via Paypal or Clickbank, you may not be aware of the fact that your digital products can be stolen... even right now!

Malicious people who have ordered your product can pass the download link to others.

It happens all the time with music files or complete software programs, so why shouldn't it happen to your product?

In fact, this may have been one of the reasons that your product didn't sell very well lately.

It might have nothing to do with your marketing efforts, and you could have spent a lot of your hard earned advertising dollars... all for nothing!

"How to protect your Ebook download pages"

However, there is a way to protect your "Thank-You" pages, from being stolen or copied.

If you are concerned about your products, you better get the FREE "Selling Through ClickBank" Ebook, written by Kenneth Yang.

Kenneth's book teaches ClickBank and PayPal users how to protect their download pages from being accessed by freebie-scammers, using a simple PHP redirect script that they can type up in Notepad and upload in less than one minute.

And the great thing is that this script is FREE to use.

No need to pay nearly $40 bucks for some other script that purportedly does the same thing – albeit in a slightly different manner.

You can download Kenneth's Ebook by clicking here:

(This ebook is in .exe format, so it's for Windows users only...)

All the best!
