It's Hurricane Season... But We Are Visiting Hilton Head Island

By Rich Neste

What if a storm hits Hilton Head Island before you get ready to go on vacation? The answer is simple... stay home!

But before you unpack, just check to make sure whether the Island has been affected. We have had many tropical storm warnings over the years, but unlike Florida we've been extremely fortunate. In our opinion, the best offense is defense. We recommend purchasing travel insurance. Even the most basic travel insurance will provide some compensation if flights are canceled or the island is closed down due to a hurricane.

In 2006, the National Hurricane Center is predicting a hurricane season with 8 to 10 named storms. As residents of Hilton Head Island, we always prepare the best we can. We are constantly planning ahead. You should do the same; you need to plan ahead. While we cannot forecast the weather day in and day out, the Internet can provide help in dealing with the variety of weather conditions vacationers may face that could take a toll on Hilton Head Island. The Weather Channel site and the National Hurricane Centers site are two excellent resources.

At Hilton Head Rentals we recommend the following. Use the services of a travel professional, especially if you will be vacationing during hurricane season. When buying vacation packages through a vacation rental property management company or a travel agency, it will reduce your stress because travel professionals are your advocates and are ready to help you through difficult travel scenarios. If a vacation is booked online it may be difficult to get through to one of their representatives.

Purchase Travel Insurance.

On Hilton Head Island there are a lot of different vacation companies that offer a variety of vacation insurance plans. If you book directly with a vacation rental management company that offers homes, villas and condos, they will in all likelihood have insurance plans to offer. If you're working with a travel agent, they can assist you in determining which plan provides the best coverage for the right price. Some even offer a "cancel for any reason" waiver, allowing you to see that a hurricane might be swirling for Hilton Head. With this type of plan, your travel professionals can quickly use their resources to find an alternate resort area so your vacation won't be sacrificed.

Hilton Head Accommodation

By Josh Szatmari

The second largest barrier island on the east coast, Hilton Head Island, SC attracts more than 2 million people year round. In a courteous professional manner, we at Hilton Head Island accommodate cater to all of our guests. Located in the Lowcountry between Old South sister cities Savannah, Georgia, and Charleston, South Carolina, Hilton Head Island is plush with untouched marshlands, palmetto tree-lined roads, and 12 miles of public and private beaches. Whether you are traveling for business, golf, tennis, or family vacation, Hilton Head Island has a variety of accommodations to suit your needs.

If you are vacationing with family and friends, affordable spacious homes and villas are available for as short or extended a period as needed. For those family reunions or vacations, mansions with 5 bedrooms or more have the endless seascape within walking distance or outside the living room window. For the romantic at heart, more intimate cottages and villas by the sea are ready and waiting to be rented. It's no secret to any golfer that Hilton Head Island hosts the Heritage Classic and boasts world-class courses. Rental houses, condos, and villas are tucked in along the sides of almost all courses, everywhere from first tee to eighteenth green. Whatever brings you to Hilton Head Island and however long you need to stay, we at Hilton Head Island will accommodate you with the type of rental property that suits and satisfies your needs.

Whether visiting for an extended business trip or a pleasurable weekend at the beach with family and friends, Hilton Head Island has the hotel for you. With names you know and service you can depend on, the hundreds of island hotels vary in location and price, catering to all of our guests. With Hilton Head Island's laws and ordinances, hotels have a limited number of floors and exteriors that blend into the natural surroundings. In a more subtle way than other resort areas, our resort hotels display refinement while still having the luxury of pools and whirlpool spas, casual and fine dining, and the excitement of bars that inhabit the shore's edge.

Traditional in their care and European modern in treatment, Bed and Breakfasts have the attention to detail the discerning guest comes to expect. Located in serene surroundings, with dancing fountain streams, lush gardens, and pampering spas, Bed and Breakfast inns of Hilton Head Island are first-rate for blissful honeymoons or the much-needed spoiling and tranquility of a getaway. After a respite in one of these Bed and Breakfasts, you will come away relaxed, refreshed, and ready for the jostle of
