Key features of best business hotels

By Siripen Yiamjanya

For business travelers like you, staying in comfort at a hotel and having access to the room amenities, while waiting to meet your business deals, is a great thing you expect. During your stay in the hotel, it's usual that you need to be in connection with businesses outside, so it's not surprising that you would take advantage of hotel's facilities or amenities and services. It's not only relaxing, spacious and well-equipped rooms you look for, but it's all about the things like computers, in-room high speed internet (we know you love it!), cell phone, cell phone charger, notebook computer batteries, notebook computer batteries, cable TV, good lighting to perform work, and other various business services available that can support and take care of your business work, until you complete the business trip.

Moreover, your business-free time should also be considered. In late afternoon, evening, or nighttime (if you prefer to stay in your hotel), you will definitely want to kick back in the hotel's 24-hour restaurant or enjoy a beer or cocktail in café or bar (or coffee lounge). In-house restaurant could be the most favorite dining option. Moreover, for business travelers, shuttle service to and from the airport is supposed to be the most important amenity, followed by childcare facilities, swimming pool and fitness center.

Well, all above seem not enough! Why don't we go together to see more what to consider when to choose the best hotels for business travel.

Key Features of Best Business Hotels and Business Travel

First of all, it's about what hotel you look for your business trip.

Hotel Features: The question is whether the hotel has the types of features you need. What kind of hotel you look for: the hotel that suits well your need for the quick overnight stay or the hotel for week-long business trip? Check if the hotel has business suites or meeting rooms available if you need them?

Location: Hotels that are situated near an airport or located in a city's business district usually cater to business travelers because they can perfectly respond business travelers travel style. Airport hotels rarely offer much on scenery, but they make up for it with convenient location. This feature of airport hotels makes it easier to travel to central district to meet contacted business people or to catch up on business work, or to fly out for short break getaway, and fly back in. But you should check if the airport hotel is really close to the airport.

Furthermore, check if the particular hotel you want to stay is located in a safe part of town. Moreover, it would not be good at all if you find after arrival at the hotel that there is major construction going on in the area around your hotel's location.

Additionally, it's good if your selected hotel is located in the city center, where you can expect to explore many more things of the city off your business time (such as the nighttime). However, make sure that you already check the hotel's location that it's not too near the club and bar areas where music can make too much of loud noise. Although you want to sample the city nightlife, we hope that you would not spend the whole night listening to the club music downstairs, and being awakened every 20 minutes by the group of partygoers making loud noise. Your business trip next day could be a difficult day.

Internet Access: Most hotels offer Internet access. It can be the business center's computer, high-speed access in the room, or wireless hotspots. International 5-star hotels for business travelers rather focus even much more on this feature. The hotels will facilitate business travelers up to five or six high-speed Internet terminals for easy access and quick response. Imagine how much a hotel is perfect to have Internet access available everywhere for you, to make sure that business travelers like you never lost in businesses and communication outside. It's business travel lifestyle!

Quick, Customer Service: Professional hoteliers are in the business of providing good customer service or hospitality. Business hotels make the important distinction of offering good customer service quickly and efficiently, rightly to your needs. Your needs must be met quickly so that you can perform your business deals even more quickly and efficiently as well.

Concierge Service: Not all hotels have a concierge, but if they do, a good concierge can be very helpful. They are there to make your hotel stay extra special, especially if you are during your business stay. They can respond your special request. So, check if the concierge offers the types of extra services you need.

But you should be informed that concierge works for tips and since they can provide such a wide variety of services, there aren't really standard tipping guidelines. Simple requests can be rewarded with small tips, but more complex and difficult requests should be rewarded accordingly.

Easy Transportation: Business travelers need to be places on time and with minimal hassle. Best business hotels usually offer transportation shuttles to major business areas, or assist travelers with securing taxis or private cars.

All Effort to Guest Service: Perfect business hotels must allow business traveler like you to focus on your jobs, to make them the most successful. If a guest is in trouble, whatever that can damage his or

Selecting The Right Location For Amsterdam Hotels

By Sarah Veda

There are a wealth of different types of hotels available to you throughout Amsterdam. If you are traveling there, consider two things. First, consider what attractions and features are important to you. Then, determine what features the hotel that you are going to stay at will have. The good news is that with a wide range of hotel choices available, you are sure to find just the type that fits your specific needs.

One thing that you may want to take into consideration for these hotel choices are the attractions or interests that you have that Amsterdam can offer. Are you traveling for business? Are you traveling to sight see? The choice of hotel should put you where you need to be. Are you visiting Amsterdam to take in the beauty that the city is so well known for? Perhaps the flower gardens that line the streets, the quaint shops that call you in or perhaps you are looking to grow in the museums there. Finding a hotel that is close to these things may be just what you are after.

Amsterdam offers many choices in hotels. Some are even in castles, for that extra experience. You will notice that many of the hotel chains that are quite popular around the world are located throughout most of Amsterdam. Yet, you will also find those that offer a bit more charm and more authentic feels to them. Depending on what you would like the hotel to offer, most offer ideal amenities to allow you to relax and enjoy what the city has to offer. What's nice is that some are priced quite affordably to help even those that are looking for a budget travel experience to find just that.

With so many options available, there is no doubt that these hotels are just what you are looking for. Now, you have to limit it to just one to actual stay at.
