The marketers who are the most successful online are also the best students, they constantly study, read, listen, and watch. They go to conferences, they mastermind with other marketers, they then test and put into practice what they've learned.

Freedom You Must Be Ready To Devote Your Self To Your Goals And Dreams!

Do you know the top reasons so many small business' fail?

Under Capitalization. The number one reason for business failure is underestimating start up expenses and the money needed to keep your business alive in the months it takes to learn the ropes. It takes money to make money – that's it!! You need money for your tools, training and money to cushion for your mistakes..

Poor Planning and Research. If you don't plan to succeed, then life itself is planning for your failure. Make your business plan simple. Concentrate on building a list. Find affiliate programs and joint venture partners to supply products and income. Regardless of what marketing method you choose, you'll need a basic marketing plan and you will need to be Very consistent with it.

Poor Marketing. Promoting may not be as much fun, but it's key to making the fun parts pay off. You should spend more of your time marketing than on any other task. In the course of running your business, it's easy to get caught up in a million idiotic things..

Not taking action. The biggest mistake entrepreneurs make is not taking action. A lot of people get the paralysis of analysis. They think about it, They think about it, They think about it, Plan for it and so forth. BUT they never take action!! They are just dreamers!! The most successful people are minglers. They don't wait for customers to come to them. They're out there getting their name and business noticed.

Set Your Goals. You have to set goals for your online business. If you don't know where you're going, then how do you ever plan to get there. And for most people, they simply say they want to make $5,000 a month and quit their job. That's not enough. Be more specific. What would you like your life to be like one year from now? How about 5 years from now? How about 20 years?

Here's a rule a lot of people forget when marketing. "Internet marketing should be fun." If building a business is giving you ulcers and high blood pressure while you're also growing incredibly unfit, then you're setting yourself up for failure. The Best Way to Produce A Lifestyle You Enjoy is By Doing What You Love! Find your LOVE and you will find success. Yes, it will be hard starting out. It is in any business you get started in. If your business is also your passion and your hobby though, YOU WILL make it through and won't quit when it gets hard, because you LOVE it.

Beware of "Microwave Mentality" Which is: Short Term Thinking. Make money for later not for today! Look at the Long Term! There is NO FREE LUNCH. No $5,000/mo in 3 months without working hard at it. Network Marketing is right for EVERYONE. Unfortunately, not everyone is right for network marketing. Most beginners in network marketing are very excited about getting started. However, even very determined individuals will fail within their first year if they are not working a proven system. Regardless of what marketing method you choose, you'll need a basic marketing system and you will need to be Very consistent with it. Marketing is never a "one-shot" deal. It always takes a steady effort, time and patience.

There is no one perfect system for marketing, but that's OK. With a good system and a steady effort you'll do just fine. If you already have a good system, and it can be easily duplicated to your downline, stick with it. If not, find a proven system that are currently working well and that can be duplicated by everyone in your group. It's just a numbers game – pure statistics.

The Importance of Advertising Your Home Business

By Kevin Purfield

The most important aspect of any business is selling the product or service. Without sales, no business can exist for very long.

All sales begin with some form of advertising. To build sales, this advertising must be seen or heard by potential buyers, and cause them to react to the advertising in some way. The credit for the success, or the blame for the failure of almost all ads, reverts back to the ad itself.

Generally, the "ad writer" wants the prospect to do one of the following: Visit the store or website to see and judge the product for himself, or immediately write a check or use a credit card and send for the merchandise being advertised. Phone for an appointment to hear the full sales presentation, or write for further information which amounts to the same thing.

The bottom line in any ad is quite simple: To make the reader buy the product or service. Any ad that causes the reader to only pause in this thinking, to just admire the product, or to simply believe what's written about the product – is not doing its job completely.

The "ad writer" must know exactly what he wants his reader to do, and any that does not elicit the desired action is an absolute waste of time and money.

In order to elicit the desired action from the prospect, all ads are written according to a simple "master formula" which is: Attract the "attention" of your prospect. "Interest" your prospect in the product Cause your prospect to "desire" the product Demand "action" from the prospect

Never forget the basic rule of advertising copywriting: If the ad is not read, it won't stimulate any sale; if it is not seen, it cannot be read; and if it does not command or grab the attention of the reader, it will not be seen!

Most successful advertising copywriters know these fundamentals backwards and forwards. Whether
