

This Free E-Book is brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!

Live as Royce, the Kid

By Julie Jordan Scott

Live as Royce, the Kid by Julie Jordan Scott

Many years ago lived a farmer who, in addition to raising crops, had a herd of goats who provided his family and community with milk and cheese.

One day, a curious-and-often-getting-himself-in-trouble little kid (the term for young goat) named Royce strayed from the herd and found that he had tumbled into a deserted well. Straight down he fell with no apparent way out of the hole.

Royce cried and cried, attracting the attention of the farmer.

After numerous attempts to save Royce, the farmer could no longer stand his bleating pleas for help so he decided the only thing he could do was to put the kid out of its misery and bury it in the well.

He invited his neighbors to assist him in the painful and the only way conceivable way the farmer could see to put an end to the problem.

Royce stood at the bottom of the well, sad and dejected. He was unaware of the farmer's plan was for him. He had grown tired of crying for help. He changed his strategy to deep thinking and trust that he would soon be presented with a solution if he kept his eyes, mind and heart open.

He simply knew the tools to his freedom would appear.

He spent time in quiet contemplation, allowing peace to fill him where the sadness used to be. He meditated, focusing on his breathing.

As he felt contentment rise from deep within his spirit, he found himself surrounded in raining dirt from above.

He noted the dirt with curiosity as he saw his hoofs were quickly covered with its brownness.

He realized something in that moment and took action.

Meanwhile, the farmer sadly took his shovel and continued to put more dirt into the well. He had noticed how quiet it was down in the well, and he was beginning to grieve for the curious-and-often-getting-himself-in-trouble little kid named Royce.

After shoveling what seemed like a huge mountain of soil into the well, the farmer suddenly heard the familiar sound of Royce's call. Looking into the well, he saw that the smart and innovative little kid had used the dirt he had thrown down the well as stairs to freedom instead of as covering to his own grave.

Excitedly, the farmer added more and more dirt until Royce scampered out of the well and back to his herd and his family.

Questions to ponder:

When you are in a hole and dirt falls down around your feet, what do you see? A step to freedom or a covering to your grave?

How can you use "the dirt" that shows up in your life as the foundation for your future success?

How do you label yourself? Do you call yourself more frequently something like:

"curious-and-often-getting-himself-in-trouble little kid named (fill in your name)"

OR do you call yourself:

"smart and innovative little kid"?

Which would empower you more?

It is Eleanor Roosevelt who said, "I could not, at any age, be content to take my place by the fireside and simply look on. Life was meant to be lived. Curiosity must be kept alive. One must never, for whatever reason, turn his back on life."

Facing your life means taking whatever dirt is thrown your way and being curious with it. Accessing the lessons it is meant to give you. Embracing each moment without judging or punishing or making it wrong.

Live as Royce, the Kid.

Julie Jordan Scott is a Co-Founder of the We CoachPeople Network. A successful writer, coach and entrepreneur, Julie uses multiple streams of income to allow her the freedom to live the life of her dreams. For resources to grow towards your life of freedom, visit <http://www.WeCoachPeople.Net> today. Or email Julie at <mailto:julie@WeCoachPeople.net>

Is Fear Holding You Back?

By Al Martinovic

Is Fear Holding You Back? by Al Martinovic

Is fear holding you back? As a kid I remember playing ball once with a group of other kids. One kid in particular got angry with me for reasons I can't recall. But I do remember very vividly what happened next!

Standing only five feet away from me, he took a tennis ball, reared back, and threw with all his might at my face!

Live as Royce, the Kid

I calmly put my hand up and caught the tennis ball with my right bare hand ... only inches from my face. The kid was in shock as to how I was able to catch that ball as were five other kids standing nearby. Heck... I even shocked myself!

In amazement they asked how I was I able to catch that ball to which I replied: "I don't know!"

As I look back on it today, I now know the answer. I had No Fear! The slightest bit of panic and the ball would have surely hit me in the face. I had No Fear! That is why I caught the ball.

As you sit there reading this, ask yourself: Is fear holding me back in my internet business? Are there certain things I can do to make me more successful like participating in conference calls, calling prospects over the phone etc. but don't because of fear?

Fear is the biggest obstacle to your success! If you're new to internet marketing it is like that kid trying to throw a tennis ball at your face! Will you get hit? Or will you catch the ball? Hopefully you opted for the latter!

This article may be re-printed provided the resource box is included.

This Free E-Book has been brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment

Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!