When it comes to the bride and groom selecting the right wedding favours for their guests, it can become quite daunting by the large range of favours available. There are so many variations of wedding favour on the market, that it may cause confusion. But at the same time the vast array can also help make that all important decision and there are plenty of possibilities to match the style and theme of your wedding day.

Many brides look for that unique wedding favour, but at the end of the day, you have to remember that there is no right or wrong way when selecting the type of favours for your guests, although a lot of brides choose their wedding favours that best illustrate their true personalities as individuals and couples.

Another consideration to take onboard when selecting the perfect gifts for your friends and family, is the colour and decor of the reception tables. What colour and theme will the reception room and tables exhibit? This can all play a big part in the decision making.

Your choice of wedding favour doesn't have to be limited to the table decor. Some brides prefer to opt for the favour that will last for many years after the big day has come and gone, so their guests can reflect back on that special day. These can be in the form of Photo Album Favours, Silver Bottle Openers, Frosted Heart Bottle Stoppers, Silver Plated Wedding Bells as well as personalised gifts such as Personalised Champagne Flutes, Personalised CD Covers containing their favourite wedding tunes and many, many more.

Personalised wedding favours are very much in demand. This enables the bride and groom to take advantage of some of the more common wedding favours available and personalise it with their names and wedding date, either as a customised label or engraved on the item itself.

The bride does not have to spend a huge amount of money on purchasing wedding favours. There are so many high quality favours available at low-cost prices and can be purchased from as low as dollar each. It's the careful thought that goes into choosing the right gifts that will be well received by your guests that is most important. That in itself is what makes wedding favours truly unique!

One wedding seems to blend into another and looking for alternative ideas can be a struggle. Here are some great tips for making your wedding favours as unique as you are!

Ensure your wedding favours are unique wedding favours, encompassing everything you and your partner are about. Rather than going for traditional boxes or nets, why not design your own cookie wedding favour? A personalised wedding favour is so much more memorable for the guests who attend your big day. Many brides are now purchasing personalised ribbon for wedding favours. This way, brides can choose from a wide selection of favour boxes and organza bags and turn them into a personalised wedding favour by adding personalised ribbon.

Most couples choose to have their names and wedding dates printed on personalised ribbon for favour boxes, although some brides do have the guests names also printed on ribbon – a great idea for a place setting too.

Another way of providing guests with a personalised wedding favour is by attaching a tag. This personalised wedding favour tag may state the names of the bride and groom along with their wedding date or the wedding venue name or a short message from the happy couple to the guests.

A unique wedding favour such as this is well received by the guests and once the contents have been consumed, there is something left to have as a keepsake. In essence, all brides try to offer unique wedding favours to their guests but there is nothing worse than receiving a gift similar to one you have previously received at a wedding. Bear this in mind when you are deciding which wedding favours to offer your guests at your wedding because people do remember a unique wedding favour or a personalised wedding favour more than one which is non specific and seemingly not very well thought out.

Of course, not all unique wedding favours are edible. There are many gifts that can be given to wedding guests that are inedible such as wedding favour coasters, photo album favours, picture frame wedding favours and candle wedding favours. These are just as easy to present as personalised wedding favours, again with the addition of personalised ribbon or a personalised tag. Your guests may well be equally impressed with your innovative and novel ideas as you provide them with a quality alternative to edible wedding favours.

Instead of spending out on wedding favours, some brides choose to offer guests a piece of wedding cake beautifully presented in a personalised wedding favour box or a pretty organza bag. For brides who choose to give their guests some cake in a bag, they can attach a personalised wedding favour tag or tie the top with personalised ribbon. Either way, it is a lovely way of being a bit different and really offering your guests a unique wedding favour exclusive to you.
