Stephan Ducharme here,

Here is how to attain freedom with your PC!

This short story will make you realize that you are so close to freedom if you have a PC (which is obviously the case). So let me show you how to reach freedom with it:

This morning, there was a Ladybug in the shower floor.

I looked at it and it made me realize that most people are in the same situation as that Ladybug.

She felt secure on the floor ... until I turned on the shower and water started to fall on the floor. Then she got scared and she flew on top of the shampoo bottle. But her wings could have carried her out of the bathroom window. She could have flown wherever she wanted. But like most people, we simply climb to the closest step.

So what happened to her right after really scared me.

When the water started to bounce off my head onto the shampoo bottle, she panicked and to my amazement, she flew back to the floor where she once found security!!!

Don't we do that?

So that is the reason why you haven't succeeded yet!

The bottle of shampoo simply was not the right destination.

Are you doing the good thing online to make any money? 95% of the websites you have seen don't make money. If you copy them, you won't succeed and first thing you'll know, you'll be back to your 8to5 job, frustrated!

You have seen lots of offers on how to make money with your PC, but for having bought a lot of programs myself and for being online for years, I know that very few teachers will show you the correct and complete way. There exist 9 simple steps and if I don't show you each one, then it may take you years to discover them on your own.

A man called me last week saying he has been online since 1998 and like a lot of people that have been online for many years, he still hasn't figured it out.

Once you have read my 9 steps, you will know where the window to your freedom is.

Easy & Fun Craft! Make Ladybug Rocks

By Abigail Beal

With summer coming many of us see ladybugs everywhere. Why not create some special ladybugs you can keep on the porch or even inside in some special places?

This is a fun craft that kids can do. They may need some help with putting the tape on to evenly paint a straight line, and you also may want to handle the permanent marker (for putting dots onto the ladybug) - but otherwise should be able to negotiate the project just fine on their own.

This craft does involve painting parts of the ladybugs and then leaving it overnight (or for at least four hours) to dry. This is very important to make sure the paint sets. This is the perfect craft for a weekend project to do with children - by the end of the weekend the bugs are done. Just know going into it that this is not an instant project so children won't be disappointed.

Materials You Will Use:

Rocks that can fit into the palm of your hand. Select oval or rounded rocks. Can use larger rocks if you wish to.

Red and black tempura paints

Paintbrushes with assorted widths - medium to fine sized points

A black permanent marker

Masking tape

Scissors

Optional: gold or silver metallic paint pen (these are often toxic and are not child safe, if using with a small child be sure they do not put this in their mouths!)

1. Clean your rocks with warm soapy water and dish detergent. Let rocks dry.
2. Paint rocks red and allow them to dry. Drying may take four hours, or they may need to dry overnight. It is very important to let rocks dry completely before going onto the next step.
3. Take a piece of masking tape the width of your rock. We will now paint the ladybug's head on. Place the masking tape on about 1/3 of the way onto the rock, creating a head. Now use your black paint and paint a head for the ladybug. Keep the tape on while the black paint is drying.  When placing tape onto your ladybug, you only need to press the side that you will be painting onto the ladybug, so do not press the entire piece of tape down. Only press the side that will be painted down.

By using the masking tape - you are creating very clean and even lines. Your ladybugs will have a very tidy look to them.

4. Next we will create the black stripe down the ladybug's back. Take two pieces of masking tape and put them on the ladybug's back, allowing for a thin stripe of red between them. Depending on how large your rock is, this could be 1/8th of an inch or even 1/4 of an inch. Paint this stripe black and allow the tape to remain on until dry.
5. Now it is time to draw dots on the ladybug's back. You can use paint or even the permanent marker. It is your choice. Most ladybugs have many dots, but for space's sake you will probably want to put three or four spots on each side of the ladybug's back. Once this is dry you are done!
6. If you have several children making ladybugs consider writing their name in metallic paint pen along the side of the ladybug's body. Your bugs are ready for summer!
