There're some book self publishing companies offering their services through the Internet medium. These are companies where you'll be allowed to use software's techniques to edit, layout and design, and submit your book to booksellers for distribution.

Some companies in this book publishing industry will allow you only to submit your manuscript. If you submit to a company that you do not know well or highly recommended to you by a close relation or a friend then do not be surprised if you found your own manuscript in a book by another name.

Of course the best thing to do is to ask those you trust. Or you may think of just getting out there and visiting some printing houses. But why bother if you can do it from your home? Why the Internet is coming here for;-) If you can have your breakfast and drink your tea using the Internet so what about publishing, since the Internet itself is a publishing medium;-)?!

In between Luck & Effort

By Nilesh Gore

I have one magical thought, lets see it more closely. Just look around & try to find out peoples who are successful, in sense of reality, with no efforts. You will find none.

Now look around again & try to explore the peoples who are successful by morality of their efforts, and this you will find many.

Their distinctive efforts have certainly taken them ahead, may be in changeable degree.

People who believe only in luck shall be able to see opportunities in the mirrors.

Never think again that your book publishing efforts will fruit nothing!

People believing in efforts creates opportunities irrespective of circumstances, favorable or unfavorable to make a real picture / image. Luck is an unknown fruit which will we receive unexpectedly after strong efforts.

So in between luck and efforts you must focus on the efforts most of the time. I focus to my energy to get what I want; I know efforts is the right way, Luck wonders around the right way.
