Orgs And Services For Vintage Buick And Chevrolet Enthusiasts

By Mark Peoples

Buick and Chevrolet, two of the world's most famous automobile brands, have a huge following worldwide not only for their modern, sleek models but also for their vintage collectible models. As a matter of fact, there are clubs and organizations formed solely for passionate collectors of noteworthy authentic Chevrolet and Buick models with historical value. Vintage Chevrolet Club of America, with chapters in states like Portland and Washington, publishes its own magazine called Generator and Distributor with articles on how to care for vintage models, specifically automobiles manufactured in early 1900s up to the 1980s. VCCA members have the privilege to contribute personal stories and tips regarding Chevys. Another great thing about being a member of organizations such as VCCA is that one has the opportunity to keep in touch with other vintage car fanatics around the country as well. If a person is a self-proclaimed Buick and Chevrolet fanatic but he doesn't own even one model, he can still join VCCA because the organization doesn't limit itself to automobile owners.

On the other hand, Buick vintage collectors can join Buick Club of America which constantly organizes car shows and tours. BCA members can gain access to their informative forums discussing the specifics of pre-war and post-war models as well as useful tips for preserving and polishing earlier models. Buick and Chevrolet models manufactured before the World War II, mostly made of nickel and brass, naturally require meticulous care to keep up with the modern times. In fact, BCA has a sub-organization to specifically deal with restoring and caring for pre-war Buicks. A member of pre-war Buick division posted a message in the discussion forum saying earlier models of Buick, which are much slower than modern models, should be improved in order to participate in BCA tours.

Just how exactly can earlier Buick and Chevrolet models be upgraded? Well, car enthusiasts can turn to companies offering automobile restoration. For instance, 10th Street Auto Body Specialties boasts of doing an incredible job of re-working '34 Chevy, '35 Ford Woodie Hot Rod, '63 Nova SS Convertible and '56 Chevy Hot Rod Truck. One can visit their website for step-by-step guide on how they transform these old models. Demopolis Paint and Body Shop, on the other hand, entertain antique car restorations. Their finished products include 1966 Ford Mustang and 1988 Cavalier. Likewise, Ace Auto Restorations supply antique car collectors with high-quality car parts, from chrome plating to upholstery. With so many choices available, vintage Buick and Chevrolet enthusiasts should no longer have a hard time improving the interiors and exteriors of their antique automobiles.

Vintage Home Appliances: Making A Unique Statement In Your Home In The 21st Century

By Dana Bradley

Many people who are in the process of decorating their homes are on the lookout for vintage furniture and related items in the design of their rooms and spaces. In addition, some people have taken to decorating their kitchens in such a way so as to include vintage appliances in their overall decorating schemes. Indeed, making the decision to incorporate vintage appliances into your kitchen décor can allow you to make a very unique decorating statement.

Surprisingly, an incredible number of men and women from all walks of life and in different corners of the world have taken to incorporating vintage items of all sorts into their homes, including vintage appliances. They believe that the use of vintage home furnishings and appliances lends a truly homey feel to a residence.

In the 21st century, it actually is fairly easy to find different types of working vintage appliances to install into your home. For example, many people have taken to the Internet in their search for vintage home appliances. These people have had tremendous success in finding everything from ovens and stoves to refrigerators in their search online for home appliances of different types.

In addition to seeking vintage home appliances in cyberspace, many people also have been successful in finding these items in the brick and mortar world. As an example, many people have been able to find vintage home appliances at different auctions, including estate auctions, that are held with regularity in the brick and mortar world.

Some people also have found vintage home appliances at garage sales and other types of venues in the brick and mortar world. These people have been able to get great bargains by making the purchase of vintage home appliances at garage sales in the proverbial real world.

There are also some specialty mail order services that include vintage home appliances in their inventories. By simply calling a toll free number you can round up exactly what you desire in the way of vintage home appliances without even having to leave the comfort of your own home.

In the end, by making the decision to include vintage home appliances in your overall decorating scheme, you will end up with a livable, warm and fashionable residence that will be the envy of your family, friends and neighbors. You truly will be proud of your home.
