

This Free E-Book is brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!

Parrot Rescue

By Rodney Foster

Parrot Rescue by Rodney Foster

I would like to use this article to encourage people on the importance of researching all the information they can get to include reading, visiting zoo's, and even try and find someone that has a Exotic pet they are thinking of getting. In the last few years exotic pets have been taking a rise in popularity, But at the same time exotic pet deaths and abuse are high also because exotic animals do not do well in our daily life style and for the lack of people being informed of what they are getting into before buying a exotic pet.

People tend to buy these animal's on a whim and after they spend from hundred to thousands of dollars to get them home thinking they will be like there dog or cat and are suddenly exposed to a sudden shock that the pet they just bought is not what they thought it was or would be or that it dose not interrelate with them as they thought it would because they saw it on television interrelating with people.. People do not realize or do not understand the many many hours of work it takes to get some exotic pets to interact with human's. Then it comes to the point of what happens to you when your pet get's mad and bites you. I know I have been bitten from iguana's, parrot's, dogs and cats. None of these are pleasant when it happen's, People do not think that some times they have are a bad day or they just do not want to be messed with, In our home in the evening time our Blue and Gold McCaw will start to bite you when he is tired, We have a Umbrella Cockatoo that will holler loud when he is tired before his regular bedtime. Every animal has it's own personality and we have to learn each one we have.

Dealing with any animal is something you have to work on and working with Exotic's is even harder because of all there special needs and constant over seeing. I encourage everyone to research everything you can before getting that special pet that you think might want, or if your child says it is just a (lizard- spider- snake- bird) I can take care of it, or that parrot that might live to a age of 80 years old and outlive you. If you would like to ask me anything further please feel free to E-mail me at llaprescue@hotmail.com and I will get back to you as soon as I can. Also feel free to visit us at www.llap-parrotrescue.com Thank you for taking time to read this article.

Born in 1957,I Graduated from Waycross High school in 1976. After graduation I served in the Army from 1976-1982. From 1982 to 1998 I drove truck, Which I did because I loved to travel and I did this until I received a injury on the job which made me totally disabled. From 1998 till present time I have went on to receive a A.A. Degree in Biblical Studies which I received in 2002, Since then I spend my time working with my church The Eagles Nest Ministry's.

The Makings Of Good Parrot Breeders

By Low Jeremy

If you are looking for a pet that can live and last for so many years, then you should consider buying a parrot for a pet. Because of their friendly nature and interesting personalities, a wide variety of parrots have been in the pet trade for parrot lovers to enjoy.

But, owning a parrot entails great responsibility. You must be able to give proper care and attention so your pet parrot will enjoy long and healthy life.

Taking care of parrots

Parrots are known for creating close bonds with their owner or the ones who handle them. If there were one person that must understand the bird well, that should be the parrot breeder.

Parrot breeders are significant figures in the lives of parrots because they play a major role in taking care of them. In the lives of parrots, the parrot breeders are foster parents because they take care of the bird from the beginning.

Since the parrot breeders are the ones who look over the well-being and welfare of parrots since birth, the overall health and personality of the parrot depends on the methods of breeding they use. Future behavioral patterns, ability to relate, levels of socialization and emotional health of the parrot will also greatly depend on the kind of care it received from its breeder.

One of the major responsibilities of parrot breeders is feeding the parrot. Since there are different parrot species, parrot breeders will have to learn how to respond properly in feeding in each kind. Aside from knowing the kinds of food and the right diet for each kind of parrot, the proper way of feeding should also be paid attention, too. Parrot breeders should know the proper way of feeding each kind so as not to put the baby parrot in danger.

Aside from feeding, "weaning" and "bathing" are other major responsibilities of parrot breeders. Because of the great responsibility a parrot breeder must take into consideration, not everyone can be a parrot breeder.

Time, energy, commitment, patience, and resources should be considered to be successful in this endeavor. Since time and dedication is quite crucial in obtaining healthy, non-hybridized specimens of parrots, interested parrot breeders should prepare themselves for this tedious but rewarding task.

There are actually a long list of parrot and tropical bird breeders available on line. Whether you are located in United Kingdom, Europe, Canada, Australia, or in any of the states of United States, there is a directory of seasoned parrot breeders who understand the needs of the parrots very well. You might want to visit these sites in order to ensure the well-being of your parrot.

This content is provided by Low Jeremy. It may be used only in its entirety with all links included. For more information on Pet Parrot & other useful information, please visit

This Free E-Book has been brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!