Party Planning Advice

By George Meszaros

Planning for a successful party your guest will remember for a long time is no small task. Party planning is a job with many important components. The importance of careful planning is depends on the size and significance of your party. If you are planning a party of a lifetime, you are going to be under much more pressure than planning a weekly poker party get together. Determining the magnitude of your party is the most important first step in your party planning process. Setting your party budget and how many people you are inviting are close second and third. Your budget and the number of guest are among the two most important aspects of the entire planning process.

Think of you party budget as an opportunity not as a challenge. There is no such a thing as too much money spent on a special event. Anyone can spend a ton of money on a party and make it an unbelievable event. The challenge is to create a great party on a small budget. Before you spend a dime on anything set your budget and stick with it.

Your party planning must include the following details: food, decorations, party favors, and plates, cups and napkins. All of the above depends on your budget and the number of guest you are inviting. Don't go shopping without a list to avoid buying on impulse. The biggest threat to staying within your budget is impulse buying. Go shopping with a mission, don't improvise and always avoid impulse buying.

The food that you choose for your party is significant. A more formal party normally requires more formal food and serving. An informal party requires simple food such as pizza or other finger food. Take the season and geographical location into consideration as well. Is your party planning being done for a theme party? If you are planning a themed party then have foods that suit it. Serving fish and seafood at a beach party is most appropriate. Serving fruits and vegetables during a summer party is a good fit. If you are planning a luau themed party have Hawaiian foods and drinks.

Party planning can be stressful, but it should also be fun. After all you are planning a party, enjoy it!

Party Planning For Dummies

By Patty Illomia

Planning for a party is no small stuff. It can be really hard to plan for any kind of party and the more important your party is the more stress you are bound to be under. It is a good thing for you that I am here to write this spectacular party planning article to help you to plan the perfect party for any occasion.

Party planning needs to start with a budget. You cannot just go out and start purchasing things willy-nilly without a budget and a plan. SO begin your party planning with making up a good budget. How much money do you have to spend on your party? Decide on a reasonable amount and then break this party planning budget down into sections.

Your party planning sections should look something like this, food, decorations, party favors, and plates, cups and napkins. Once you have this stage of your party planning finished you can then start filling in the columns. How many dishes will you need? Is this the kind of party that requires party favors? This is one of the most important aspects of party planning and it is what will make your shopping for your party much, much easier. Once you have a defined list you can go out and start your shopping. Party planning can be stressful, sure, but it should also be fun. After all you are planning for a party, so enjoy it!

The food that you choose for your party is important to the entire event. You will have to take into consideration what kind of party it is that you are having in the party planning stage. For example, is your party planning being done for a birthday, or an anniversary? Is your party planning being done for a theme party? These types of things matter when you are trying to choose the foods that will suit your party to perfection. IF you are having a themed party then have foods that suit it. If you are having a luau themed party have Hawaiian foods and drinks or if you are having a Christmas party then have Christmas themed foods. This is just smart party planning and it will make your party all the more fun for everyone.
