Pop-up from the Pulpit, Or , Osama bin Laid

Pop-up from the Pulpit, Or , Osama bin Laid by Kate Kaye

It could happen the next time you fly. It could happen the next time you open a letter. It could happen the next time you're at a ball game. It could even happen the next time you check your email in-box. The threat of enemy attack is imminent. It's just a good thing we have the Christian Coalition to assist us in our fight against evil.

Perhaps you didn't realize that the family-friendly lobbying group was also such a strong ally on the homeland security front. As told in a 10/8 PR Week story, a pop-up ad window appearing on the organization's website recently read, "The tragic terrorist attacks are driving home a very painful lesson for every American. We must make it our top priority to safeguard our own cities and towns from an insidious enemy."

The trouble is, the CC's idea of an enemy isn't necessarily what you may expect. It's not terrorism, or Osama bin Laden, or any of the villains of the day. It's pornography. Yes, as the site user was soon to discover, the "insidious enemy" is "pictures of naked people on the Web," according to the PR Week piece (Pop-up porn rant poorly presented).

A visit to the group's anti-smut Web sanctuary by The Lowbrow Lowdown Lackeys revealed that the pop-up copy no longer lures site visitors through misleading text (also a common practice of pornography pushers). Instead it reads, "Special Report: How Pornography Is Attacking Our Families (Click for Details)."

Sure, at first glance, Pat Robertson and his flock seem to have gone a bit overboard with the pop-up ad. But maybe, just maybe, they're on to something. Perhaps there is a direct correlation between the evils of pornography and the lascivious lifestyles that foster Taliban-sanctioned terrorism. Think about it: reporters say Osama and crew live in caves, but they're not caves. They're pleasure dens. When the media claim that these al Qaeda training camps are teaching troops to fire "stinger missiles," don't be fooled. The term "stinger missile" is a euphemism for the most potent, powerful weapon of all: the love gun, people, the penis! As for those Afghani women who shroud themselves from head-to-toe in burkas, do you know what they've got under all that concealing clothing? Nothing -- that's right! Those harlots are completely nude under there! And that supreme leader, Mullah Mohammed Omar: that tale about him losing an eye after being hit by Soviet shrapnel is a fallacy! We all know why he really went blind. You guessed it: too much masturbation!

So, maybe if the U.S. Government funnels fewer funds into military operations and this so-called "homeland security" and more money into the war against pornography, we can truly rid the world of the evil-doers. Of course, posting the Ten Commandments in the Supreme Court chambers wouldn't hurt either.

Osama and Saddam

Osama and Saddam

You know that if he could've done it before 911, Osama would've come out of his cave and gone to the top of a mountain where his cell phone reception was better and had a conversation with Saddam that would've probably gone something like the following (translated into English for your convenience):

Osama said, "Hello, Saddam?"

"Who's this?" Saddam asked.

"Osama."

"Omarosa?"

"No, Osama. Hold on while I try another spot... Can you hear me now?"

"Osama! What can I do you for?"

"Saddam, my buddy, my friend. You know that we've never quite seen eye-to-eye."

"That's because you're almost eight feet tall, you freak."

"That's what I like about you, Saddam, your sense of humor. And your desire to kill the infidels."

"What are you trying to butter me up for? I'm really busy. The American dogs are barking on my doorstep. I've got nerve gas, nuclear materials, smallpox and anthrax to pack up before they arrive and get it out of the country so they can't find it. There are banks to loot. I've got sons-in-law to behead. A dictator's work is never done."

"I hate to ask you, but I've got a plan to attack the Great Satan America, and I need a million dollars."

"A million dollars? Is that all? Pocket change. I can get you a couple of million and I'm sure there are others in the Middle East that would kick in something."

"Good. Good."

"I can send you a truck full of cash a week from Thursday. By the way, I've got a question for you. You've evaded the Americans since you attacked the USS Cole. Do you have any suggestions on how I can hide from them if they invade?"

"Have you considered living in a hole in the ground? It's worked pretty well for me."

"I don't know. I've been living in palaces for a while. Living in a hole in the ground doesn't sound like much fun."

"What are you whining about? Try dragging a dialysis machine around from cave to cave while evading the Americans, then you should complain."
