Singapore - The Lion City

By Josiah William

Singapore derives its name from the Malay words singa (lion) and pura (city) which is why it is also known as the Lion City. Folklore has it that Malay a prince named Sang Nila Utama saw a lion as the first living creature on the island and decided to name it Singapura as a result.

The Lion City was originally a British trading colony in 1819 and joined the Malaysian Federation in 1963; however, Singapore separated two years later and became independent. It subsequently became one of the world's most prosperous countries with strong international trading links (its port is one of the world's busiest in terms of tonnage handled) and with per capita GDP equal to that of the leading Western European nations.

ENTRY REGULATIONS All who enter Singapore require a passport valid for at least 6 months beyond date of departure. Visa is not required if visitors plan to stay no more than 14 days; most tourists are given a 14-day Social Visit Pass on arrival at Changi International Airport.

CLIMATE Singapore's climate is equatorial, warm and humid all year round with intermittent rains throughout the year.

LANGUAGE Several languages are spoken in Singapore but majority speak Mandarin and English including Malay, Hokkien, Cantonese, Teochew, Tamil and other Chinese dialects.

CURRENCY The currency unit is the Singapore dollar (S$). Approximately S$1.50 = US$1

DOMESTIC TRANSPORT Singapore's Metro Rail Transit and the Light Rail Transit services serve domestic travel. Air-conditioned taxis and buses regularly ply the city.

The Lion King Roars While Bringing South Africa To Broadway

By Al Terry

The hit Disney musical Broadway show The Lion King opened in the famous theater district of New York City on November 13, 1997. The production's home has been the New Amsterdam Theatre located at 214 West 42nd Street. The show runs about two hours and forty-five minutes with one intermission. The Lion King will be moving to a new Theatre as Mary Poppins is set for a run at the New Amsterdam in 2006.

The Lion King is an original musical that tells the story of a young lion cub who is learning that his role will soon be the king of the jungle. Based on the hit Disney movie which won over the hearts of adults and children alike, with the struggles of Simba, the young lion cub who is realizing the challenges and responsibilities as the king of the jungle.

The Broadway show adds huge production values with forty actors lavished in unbelievable costumes, to recreate all the animals of the African jungle. The musical score is just as impressive with the classic Elton John hit "Can You Feel The Love Tonight", which also won an Oscar.

The theater version of The Lion King also includes some great musical rhythms from the South African composer Lebo M., who makes you feel you are in the heart of the jungle at times, it really adds a nice touch to the experience.

The Lion King is quickly reaching its 10th year on stage and continues to dazzle everyone who sees the fascinating show. The New Amsterdam Theatre holds 1747 seats which sell out often, Broadway Show Ticket The Lion King average about eighty-five dollars with the ticket high at about two hundred and dollars.
