Ten Tips to Organize Your Bathroom by Barbara Myers

If several household members are sharing a bathroom, follow these tips to help organize it.

1. Clean out every drawer and shelf in the bathroom. Get rid of anything that isn't being used.
2. Move your medicines to the kitchen. The heat and steam in the bath can ruin them.
3. Give each household member a different colored basket to fill with toiletries. No sharing. Make sure everyone has their own toothpaste, eye drops, cosmetics and grooming supplies. Each person will keep the basket in his or her bedroom.
4. Evaluate your storage. You will need places for: towels, nail care, extra paper, feminine hygiene products, hair care and back-up supplies of soap and shampoo. Nothing else belongs in the bathroom.
5. Use a shower/bath caddy for shampoo and soap. They are inexpensive and are available in many different styles.
6. Set up a drip-dry container for bath toys if you have small children. Cut slits in an empty wipes box for an inexpensive solution.
7. Make space for a small, lidless hamper or laundry basket. Otherwise, have a system for depositing used towels in the laundry room.
8. Use hooks instead of towel racks for kids. They'll be more likely to use them. Have as many hooks and/or towel racks as you have persons using the bathroom.

Ten Tips to Organize Your Bathroom

9. Make a checklist of all products in your bathroom as well as those used by each individual. Review weekly before shopping.

10. Explore the variety of storage options you can use in the bath. Small countertop drawers can organize cotton balls and Q-Tips. Cutlery trays in drawers, plastic shelves under the sink, caddies which attach to doors, and rolling carts can all contain the clutter that so often accumulates in this much-used room.

Importance Of Bathroom Remodeling You Never Thought Of

By Jeff Jefferson

I remember someone once said, "If you want to know how clean anyone is, visit their bathroom to see what it looks like". Many people will laugh when they see such statements as such, but it is the reality. This statement is subject to debate, but there is a lot of truth in it.

You see, for you to think about bathroom remodeling, you are among those rare individuals who know the importance of their bathroom, and who will not fall prey to the above statement.

No doubt, it is a sign of cleanliness to want to remodel your bathroom. There are many people who don't care about their bathrooms. Such people end up embarrassing themselves because when visitors come into their houses, they are likely to visit the bathrooms. In such cases, if the bathroom is not in a good shape, you would end up with a negative impression in the mind of the visitors.

Apart from visitors coming to your home, it is also beneficial for you to remodel your bathroom— for the sake of cleanliness and livability. This will help you because like the popular statement goes— "cleanliness is next to Godliness". A clean bathroom is fun to have as it signals cleanliness.

Looking at it closely, it is in your bathroom that you wash up to reveal your cleanliness. If it is not in a good shape, then how can you clean up yourself with it? Wouldn't it end up making you dirtier than you were before you used it?

Also, bathroom remodeling gives your home more value than how it is before bathroom remodeling. This means that if you are to sell your house, it will cost much more because of the remodeling you did to the bathroom. Since you cannot move the bathroom to your new house, it will be included with your sale and will attract more money, especially if you did the bathroom remodeling well.
