The First Party

By Mitch Johnson

Wondering on how you are going to arrange for your "so-big" be three year old first birthday party.

Here are some tips on how to surprise your kids by giving him a wonderful and enjoyable party.

Will your "So-Big" be three years old his next birthday? What fun to give him his first birthday party! He'll talk about it days beforehand and play party for many days after. That is, if he has enjoyed his first party. And he is sure to if you plan it properly.

Parties for these small fry need not, and should not be elaborate affairs that cost a lot of money. His guests should be a small group of his own friends not limited to the children of your friends. And it should be carefully planned to avoid any youngster upsets the following day.

In the first place, nothing upsets the schedules of small children more than party refreshments in the late afternoon. An early supper solves the refreshment problem. And their mothers will be grateful indeed because on arriving home the tired children can all be popped into bed immediately and the family dine undisturbed.

>From three to five o'clock are the best party hours for small children. Three o'clock doesn't interfere with nap time, thus allowing each child his undisturbed rest and putting him in good spirits for the party. Since parties for children under six years of age should never last more than two hours each, small guests will have abundant time for play and will be ready for home by five o'clock.

If because of transportation difficulties mothers must be included, ask them to bring their darning. They should have a separate place in which to visit so they may not be annoyed by the youngsters' activities nor be tempted to interrupt the children's play.

Party entertainment for these little kiddies must be quite different from that of older children. These small fry do not visit like adults, therefore something must be prepared ahead of time to occupy each guest as soon as he arrives.

The First Party

For this very special party, whenever it is possible, clear a room of big pieces of furniture. In place of the grownups' dining table substitute a long, low children's table. Such a table and accompanying chairs can be borrowed from a nearby Sunday school or library room. This improvised playroom will delight even the shyest child. If a few small cars or a doll or two are out on the table to interest the early arrivals, a trying moment of the first party will be bridged.

As soon as all the little tousel-heads have arrived, be ready to start the program of games. By all means, and this is so important, have all activities for the afternoon planned with not the slightest detail left to chance.

Enough space for kiddies' activity, delicious refreshment and an interesting game will delight even the shyest child. All these must be arranged properly before the party begins.

Party Planning For Dummies

By Patty Illomia

Planning for a party is no small stuff. It can be really hard to plan for any kind of party and the more important your party is the more stress you are bound to be under. It is a good thing for you that I am here to write this spectacular party planning article to help you to plan the perfect party for any occasion.

Party planning needs to start with a budget. You cannot just go out and start purchasing things willy-nilly without a budget and a plan. SO begin your party planning with making up a good budget. How much money do you have to spend on your party? Decide on a reasonable amount and then break this party planning budget down into sections.

Your party planning sections should look something like this, food, decorations, party favors, and plates, cups and napkins. Once you have this stage of your party planning finished you can then start filling in the columns. How many dishes will you need? Is this the kind of party that requires party favors? This is one of the most important aspects of party planning and it is what will make your shopping for your party much, much easier. Once you have a defined list you can go out and start your shopping. Party planning can be stressful, sure, but it should also be fun. After all you are planning for a party, so enjoy it!

The food that you choose for your party is important to the entire event. You will have to take into consideration what kind of party it is that you are having in the party planning stage. For example, is your party planning being done for a birthday, or an anniversary? Is your party planning being done for a theme party? These types of things matter when you are trying to choose the foods that will suit your party to perfection. IF you are having a themed party then have foods that suit it. If you are having a luau themed party have Hawaiian foods and drinks or if you are having a Christmas party then have Christmas themed foods. This is just smart party planning and it will make your party all the more fun for everyone.
