The Games with the Higher Payouts

By Amy Metz

For the professional gambler, what is characterized as a fun game is obviously the ones with higher chances of payouts. How could it be fun for any of us when we lose money? Just losing money to your spouse for shopping already hurts. Think about losing it to a casino. Egad!

Blackjack and Video Poker are games that have high payouts. This makes these games more enjoyable to play for gamblers.

The payout for blackjack depends on many small variations of the rule. Some of these rules that should be given concern are: how many decks of cards are being used? Can a player double and split bets on few hands? Does the dealer peak for blackjack before the players? Can the player still surrender when the dealer has an ace for an up card?

There was a time that players were given better odds in online blackjack. Now, the odds have been changed once again to favor the casinos. The situation could be described simply as a marketing strategy. They may have given better odds to make players enjoy their winnings for a while. It eventually makes the player want to play more.

Now, to win better at blackjack even if the odds are against you, all you need to do is learn basic strategy.

Video poker is another game that can give better payouts. However, not all video poker games are the same. Before starting to play video poker, look at the pay tables in front of the video poker game. Then compare the pay tables with other machines. If you have chosen a machine with a bad pay table, you are just financing the casino's next casino.

After finding the table that has fairly good pay table rates, you will now have the odds against the machine. It could even exceed 100% in the longer run.

You won't even have to rely on your lucky charms here. If played properly, the edge will be given to you. But that's if you play perfectly. But there are very few players that can be able to do so.

The Games with the Higher Payouts

Sometimes, video poker gives you a higher chance of winning compared to blackjack. However, the variance in rules in video poker is greater. It means that when playing video poker, your money will go up and down like a roller coaster.

This is because to be able to get a higher return in video poker, you'll need a Royal straight Flush. The chances of achieving that combination in video poker are only one in 40,000. It means that you'll be playing a whole lot of poker just to get that high return.

However, video poker also offers the player chances of a single big win with only a small bet. This can not happen in black jack.

Bottom line: if you are looking to have a good time by winning money, play video poker or black jack.
