The Price of Ambition—How Much Fun You Can Have

The Price of Ambition—How Much Fun You Can Have by Miami Phillips

I am sore tonight! This soreness is all because of ambition!

We decided that we wanted horses. You know, a horse farm, in the country, with rolling fields of deep green grass; a handsome barn, full of sweet smelling hay and shavings for the stalls. The barn would have a separate room for the well-oiled and well-worn saddles and tack so we could throw the saddle on and go for a ride whenever we desired.

Of course, we would also probably need a round pen to exercise and train, and maybe a lunging pen when needed. The lake on the farm would be clear and deep, full of fish, with a nice stream flowing away down to keep the bubbling creek running.

OK, so we got what we wanted. Only it isn't quite like the dream. For starters, the field is a little overgrown with pine scrub, and weeds that have grown into trees with thorns! I don't remember ever seeing briars an inch thick before!

Somehow the rain runoff has managed to create these red clay gulleys in the fields that have to be filled in before the horses are delivered so they don't break their legs. Oh, and the barn. Well, we still have to build it!

The lake is there! The only downside is the beavers that seem to love all trees except the briars and thorn trees. They do a great job of building dams with our nice trees that they cut down during the night while we sleep. They were cute when we got here, but it gets a little old tearing out dams and having them built back that night using our good trees! It is full of fish though! At least, that is what I heard. I have been too busy to go fishing.

We are beginning to understand the snickers and laughs we get when people find out what we are doing with the farm. How much work can it be to design, lay out and build a 36 foot by 84 foot barn that has 10 stalls, office, tack room, hay storage, wash rack and feed room. You mean we have to wash these horses too?

On the other hand, the benefits are all there. We are getting in shape! We are not frivolously wasting our money on something silly like a vacation! Ian, the eleven year old and Ryan at four are learning the joys of working as a family! We are all experiencing the joys of being out in the great outdoors.

All kidding aside the lesson comes home again as it did when we were building the sailboat we would live on and sail for over seven years - ambition has a price. In my opinion there is no question the price is well worth it.

After dinner, we sat out on the two story deck and looked out over the field we had spent the day clearing. The brush bonfire was still burning down, and the stars and the moon were out in the clear night in all their glory. As we sat out there as a family and talked about what was to come, there was a clear consensus from all - we wouldn't have it any other way.

What is your dream?

I'm Ok, You're Not Ok -- Why You'll Probably Never Be Rich

By Wisecrakin Guru

I can already tell a few things about you. You're the kind of person that doesn't let a little hard work hold you back. How do I know?

The people who want everything to be easy, read the title of this article and quickly move on to the next article. You're probably also fed up with reading articles and web sites that promise you'll get rich doing next to nothing, not have to learn anything new, and can be a complete simpleton.

Am I exaggerating? Don't most of the business opportunity sites you read promise exactly that? That you can have no training, no talent, no ambition, no desire to do anything -- and STILL earn a six figure income?

I'm not exaggerating one little bit. Somehow that bizarre "do nothing" approach to business has gotten rampant on the Net. Deep in your gut, you know beyond a doubt that such methods are just drivel. No wonder Internet business opportunities have been trending downward for the past five years.

As a cousin to Rich Jerk, renowned Internet millionaire, I don't mince words when I tell people what it will take for them to earn a huge income online.

The Price of Ambition—How Much Fun You Can Have

* You MUST have ambition and not be afraid to WANT the BIGGEST things in life — big house, nice car, best neighborhood. People who don't want and don't dream don't get rich, unless they discover gold in their backyard.

* You MUST be willing to learn new methods. Case in point, the promotion methods 99% of web sites use are so badly outdated it it's almost funny. Then WHY are they still using these methods? Simple. They're either too stupid or too lazy to learn new methods. If YOU make the effort to learn better, up-to-date promotion strategies, you'll walk all over everybody else.

* STOP being easy on yourself. If you don't have millions in the bank, you AREN'T OK! You need a swift kick in your motivation. You need to get in there and FIGHT for what you want.

I could go on, but those 3 tips are ALL you need to succeed. Have boundless ambition, learn the latest strategies, and stay motivated until you make them work for you.

You know what the main difference is between the self-made millionaire and everybody else? The millionaire set her sites on wealth and didn't quit until she achieved it. Yes, showing up every day is 90 percent of the game. Come armed and ready to do battle — every day.

I'll see you at the Country Club.
