

This Free E-Book is brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!

The RV: One Of The Best Ways To See The Entire Country

By Jon Kilminster

If you are a Canadian, you may notice that every year around the beginning of June, large quantities of RVs seem to hit the roads. The weather is nice, the flowers are blooming, the grass is green and it is just the perfect time of year to get that RV out. Many Canadians view the RV as a neat way to see the rest of the country. Retired folk often spend large chunks of cash on top of the line RVs with all the gimmicks and spend most of their summers riding the open road from Newfoundland to British Columbia. Canadians whose jobs allow them to have the summers off, such as teachers, can also be seen hitting the roads in their RVs.

The majority of RV owners would agree that owning an RV is one of the best ways to see the country and to experience that of which you have not experienced before. Keep in mind that most RVs on the market today have all of the amenities that you would ever need away from home. They come equipped with stoves, refrigerators, beds, living room furniture, ample counter space and the ever popular bathroom. When you are on the road, the only real expenses that you must consider are gas money and food. Normally, you will also find it cheaper to eat because you can buy food at grocery stores and prepare it yourself rather than hit up those expensive restaurants.

In the end, this is also healthier because you can literally have a home-cooked meal away from home rather than gorging yourself with fast food. Another advantage to having an RV is that you can pretty much bunk down for the night anywhere you choose. Many people enjoy the structure and atmosphere that an RV park provides, but you need not stay at an RV park if that is not your fancy.

Many Wal-Mart department stores across Canada (especially in rural areas) allow RV'ers to bunk down for the night in their parking lots. Some RV cruisers also decide to find a nice secluded area and set up shop there. The only thing to remember is to ensure that you are not on private property and that you are indeed welcome at the spot which you choose to stay.

The freedom of the open road and playing by your own rules is another advantage. If you want to stop for a snack, you can. If you want to stop for a nap, you can. If you want to spend an extra day or two at one particular spot, you can. You are not limited by itineraries set by airline companies, bus companies, train companies or hotels that have you check out at a certain time.

The RV: One Of The Best Ways To See The Entire Country

It's fair to say that for someone who wants to take their time, see parts of the country that they have not seen before and have the freedom of making their own schedule, the RV is for them. They are not cheap by any means and it really is something that most people buy only if they are seriously planning on getting use out of it. However, one taste of the open road in that state-of-the-art RV and you will be hooked for life!

Jon Kilminster writes for

<http://www.rvselection.com>

a website packed with information about

RVs&nbsp;and

<http://www.rvselection.com>

Support With Stars And Stripes

By Hallidae Thomason

It is a great thing to be proud of and grateful for the country you come from. It is an even greater thing, I submit, to show your pride and gratefulness in ways that are proactive and productive. One of the best ways that I, as an American, have decided to actively support my country is by displaying our nation's stars and stripes in every place that I can.

My country's flag, the stars and stripes, is perhaps the most American of all symbols we have. Among other things, houses, schools, businesses and even cars choose to show their support for America by displaying proudly the stars and stripes. You do not have to drive very far down any street or through any neighborhood in our country before you see a flag flying high in the wind.

There is something about the stars and stripes that makes people feel really American and reminds them about the sacred history of our nation. Most Americans cannot help but think of the great freedoms that our country enjoys and the sacrifices that have been made in order to attain that freedom with each sight of the stars and stripes they have. The stars and stripes remind Americans of the founding of our country, of the great Civil War that took place to bring freedom to many of our captives, and of the men and women who have spent their lives to preserve the lives of others.

Not all Americans love the stars and stripes like I do. In fact, some people choose to harm and even burn the American flag in protest against the values or actions of our country. Often during times of war, for example, Americans can be found burning the stars and stripes to symbolize the way our country is being destroyed through war. Although in some ways burning a flag seems to go against everything that America stands for, in other ways this kind of protest is exactly what forms the substance of America: freedom. America is the kind of place where Americans can spend their life honoring and protecting the stars and stripes or harming and destroying the stars and stripes. Each response to our country's freedoms must be tolerated by the other.

The RV: One Of The Best Ways To See The Entire Country

There are many ways to show your support for the country you love. However, there are few ways as striking and memorable as displaying proudly the stars and stripes.

A long time history lover, Hallidae Thomason is an author about all things patriotic. Learn more about the stars and stripes of our great country by checking out

<http://www.starsandstripeshub.info>

This Free E-Book has been brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!