Totally Free Money from Online Casinos

Totally Free Money, how and where to get it at online casinos!!

Yes, there is such a thing as free money

Regardless of the old adage that "There's no such thing as a free lunch", you can easily get $10 and $15 of totally free money at a number of online casinos. These cash deals do not require that you put up any of your money.

How To Get It

Simply go to the website and download the totally free software (no costs or fees of any sort) install it and register – (or if you prefer not to download anything, then just use the flash java casinos with no download needed). The software is easy to find, download, install and run. You do have to provide a credit card – but you do not have to spend a single penny nor incur a single penny of cost.

The free software that you get is not some crummy castoff. The software is top notch professional and fun to use. I see no reason why anyone would ever want to buy casino software when you can get it for free. In fact, the casino pays you to use the software.

Of course, if you don't want the real free money, you could just play the games in practice mode.

Why They Do This

Hey, quite honestly, they want you to try for it for free and then add some of your own money. They hope you'll like playing so much that you will eventually put in some of your own money to play with.

It's also a no risk way for you to find out if you like the place. You get to look around, play the games, judge the speed, noise, activity and fun level all for free.

You're supposed to be doing this for fun. What better way to have a little fun is for someone to give you money to do it.

If You Win

If you win, you can withdraw the money and spend it elsewhere. But, before you can withdraw cash, you usually have to actually play at the casino. Playing means that in the usual course of betting you'll be constantly winning and losing. Some places require you to recycle the amount of free cash five to seven times before you can cash out.

If you get lucky and win big right at the beginning, that's no problem.

If You Lose

If you run out of free money, you can put some of your own money in or you can just quit playing at the casino. If you like the casino, but don't want to spend any money, you can play in practice mode.

In practice mode, you're not playing for real money.

More Free Money

When you add money of your own, the casino will probably match it with some of their own. Some places will do this only if you're a new player at that casino. Some casinos will do matches all the time.

You've got to read the offer before you sign up. If you know you'll be putting in some of your own money anyway, you might as well do it when you sign up. This way, you'll get the extra casino match.

As a new player, you should be getting this match no matter where you sign up. Look for the offer and make note of what you need to do, if anything, to get the match.

Online Gambling And Legislation

By Adel Awwad

With more than a trillion dollars changing hands around the world on online casinos alone, sooner rather than later legislation will step in to exercise some form of control in the casino industry. Those measures to control casinos and gambling during the early years worked as the casino had a physical location. Today however casinos have moved online with no real physical location. The question arises how legal are these online casinos?

Gambling legislation has not changed much since Congress passed the Wire Act in 1961. The Wire Act states that "Whoever being engaged in the business of betting or wagering knowingly uses a wire communication facility for the transmission in interstate or foreign commerce of bets or wagers or information assisting in the placing of bets or wagers on any sporting event or contest, or for the transmission of a wire communication which entitles the recipient to receive money or credit as a result of bets or wagers, or for information assisting in the placing of bets or wagers, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than two years, or both." This however only covered sports betting and not casinos. There was also no Internet or Internet casinos during that time.

During 1998 both MasterCard and Visa sued Cynthia Haines for money she lost while gambling on an online casino. She had lost more than US$70,000 to an online casino and could not settle her account with the plaintiffs. She filed a counterclaim well within the state laws of California which prohibited credit card loans for gambling be it online casinos or bricks and mortar casinos. That case was settled out of court. Many states have now enacted their own legislation however casinos have moved their gambling operations off shore to casino friendly countries.

Gambling has increased drastically with the advent of the Internet and online casinos. With huge profits and vested interest in casinos there are also very strong lobbyists in government to keep gambling unimpeded. The Internet Gambling Prohibition Act which was defeated in 2000 shows how much vested interest there is in the casino and gaming industry. Cyberspace is the last frontier when it comes to laws governing casinos. Only time will tell how legislation will catch-up with online casinos and gambling websites.
