Two Factors Guarantee Success

By James Brausch

I'm a big proponent of statistical analysis.

You also know that I believe in "taking action".

The combination of taking action and using good data to guide decisions are the two most important keys to success... in anything you do in life. It's that simple.

Do you employ those keys to success?

My observation is that most people approach business....or their life like they are playing the party game, "Hit the Pinata". You know, the game where a blind folded, stick wielding, participant swings at a candy filled Papier-mache object dangling from a branch. The goal is to hit the object , break open the item and then dive-in to get the candy. Its amusing to stand back and watch the "victim" flail and swing and miss, time after time. Eventually they connect and the poor papier-mâché object succumbs to the bashing.

It seems that a lot of companies conduct their business as if they are playing "Hit the Pinata" . They act as if they have a blindfold on and only by swinging harder and faster they will achieve greater efficiency. The activity is good, but not in itself enough.

I say... in your business, take the blindfold off. Why? Because when you do playing "Hit the Pinata" becomes so much easier. You hit the mark every time....and, get the candy.

Getting the right data, using proven processes and statistical analysis is "taking off" the blindfold. Add the right action and you'll be guaranteed success. And the success will come faster and easier.

Are you swinging blindly? Do you have the data you need to be able to see the target clearly and know how to get there?

If not, set up some procedures that allow you to do things in two different ways with the same measure. Start gathering some data so you can find the right way.

Two Factors Guarantee Success

An even better way than the above (which is often called split testing) is to gather data from your competitors. Analyze their public data and you'll be able to get an answer even faster.

The Statistical Copywriting course shows how to identify profitable sites and analyze their data in mass to make your site profitable. Actual data covering everything from the headline to the order link is discussed and data shared.

And Will You Succeed?

By Karen Lynch

What would you do today if you knew you could not Fail? If you had an absolute guarantee of Success (whatever you conceive that to be), what would you do?

How would you act? What would you think? Would you celebrate your victories in advance? Would you enjoy your endeavor more? How would you live your life and how would you conduct your business?

My guess is that if you had such a guarantee, you would do things much differently. You would not let "fear" of anything hold you back, no fear of failure, no fear of success, no fear whatsoever. You would not let "doubt" creep into your thoughts and immobilize your actions. You would not compare yourself with others and underestimate your own contribution to the world. If you had some rejection along the way, you would blow it off and go on, because it wouldn't matter because you have the guarantee, You are going to succeed anyway. If someone doesn't see that, it doesn't hurt you because you have a guarantee of success. You are destined for great success.

You would proceed and live with the confidence, poise and passion that would absolutely propel you to your dream of success. You would take the necessary and the extraordinary actions to make your dream a reality without any thought because you cannot fail and of course, even when success is guaranteed, action is required.

So why not pretend? Use your imagination. Pretend like you have the ironclad, rock-solid guarantee that you will have the success you desire. It's your fantasy; make it real in your own mind. Play the game and visualize the outcome. Start "acting as if" you have that guarantee. Then see what happens.

"And will you succeed? Yes! You will indeed! (98 ¾ percent guaranteed)" Dr. Seuss 1904–1991
