Unifying Principles for Family and Youth: Some Head Start Builders by Etienne A. Gibbs, MSW, Management Consultant and Trainer

Principle 1. Commit to Quality and Excellence in Thought and Action:

- * Give quality service to all.
- * Develop positive habits through daily practice.
- * Develop and maintain a professional image.
- * Provide the finest working environment possible.

Principle 2. Be Caring of Others and Be Sensitive to Their Needs:

- * Respect the individual.
- * Listen and acknowledge.
- * Be aware of what your actions say.
- * Help others solve their own problems and realize their maximum potential.
- * Eliminate cold prickles and dirty bricks.
- * Provide warm fuzzes and golden bricks and with sincerity.
- * Change leadership style as a person's competence and commitment grows.

Principle 3. Grow as a Total Person:

Unifying Principles for Family and Youth: Some Head Start Builders

- * Commit to self–development and improvement in all areas.
- * Continually develop and maintain self–esteem and a sense of achievement.
- * Set meaningful goals and evaluate your progress periodically.
- * Believe in your ability to make significant contributions and make them!
- * Promote training, education, self–sufficiency, and leadership for all children and adults.

Principle 4. Have Personal Integrity:

- * Be honest with yourself and everyone around you.
- * Be fair to the best of your ability.
- * Say and do only those things of which you can be proud.
- * Understand that mistakes will be made and learn from them.

Principle 5. Love All Children (and the Child in All of Us):

- * Respect and protect each child from harm of any kind.
- * Direct all efforts to providing a stimulating, exciting, fun–filled, learning environment.

Principle 6. Value Parents and the Family (Starting with Your Own):

- * Develop parenting skills, quality time, and bonding with other parents.
- * Give recognition for hard work, effort, and accomplishments.

Principle 7. Strive for Agency Unification:

- * Live the agency's unifying principles as well as your own.
- * Promote loyalty within the agency by word and action.
- * Assist in the sharing of ideas and joint implementation through teamwork and group goal–setting.
- * Establish buddy systems to facilitate success.

Remember: When you maximize your potential, everyone wins.

When you don't, we all lose.
