WHO CAN COLLECT MY RECEIVABLES? by Donald B. Kramer

The internet provides many resources when you need to find a firm to assist in the collection of receivables. Directories will be able to provide the names of law firms and collection agencies who specialize in the collection of delinquencies.

Here are some sites to be considered:

NARCA DIRECTORY. NARCA is the National Association of Retail Collection Attorneys. The internet directory can be found at <http://www.narca.org> Approximately 640 collection law firms are listed, with links to their e-mail and websites. Viewing is free. These firms generally work on a contingent fee basis, with no charge if the account is not collected. They collect "retail" claims-----that is, claims against consumers.

"ATTORNEYFIND" Directory at <http://www.Attorneyfind.com> is a directory of law firms in 70 categories, and includes the category of collections for creditors. The law firms listed are in both the retail (consumer) and commercial (business) collection areas. Most work is on a contingent fee basis. Viewing the directory is without charge. Listings include e-mail and website links.

A DIRECTORY OF COLLECTION AGENCIES can be seen at <http://www.eCollectionAgencies.com> for those whose claims are too small to sue, or who desire the services of a collection agency. This directory is also viewable without charge, with listings including e-mail and website links.

For legal assistance in other areas of law, you are welcome to search:

THE MARTINDALE DIRECTORY at <http://www.Martindale.com>

THE WEST DIRECTORY at <http://www.LawOffice.com>

"ATTORNEYFIND" at <http://www.Attorneyfind.com>

Why Factor Invoices? {Accounts Receivables Financing}

Why Factor Invoices? {Accounts Receivables Financing} by Afra AmirSanjari

You as a business owner or top manager know what we mean. Cash flow problems can cripple growing businesses. Everyday operations suffer because all your efforts are concentrated on collecting money on current invoices. Sales can suffer...Company morale can suffer...Needed improvements are delayed or canceled.

Factoring your receivables provides for your company to have the cash it needs today rather than waiting over 30 days to receive payment from your client. Money provided by factoring your receivables can be used for whatever your company needs, such as:

- Pay Creditors
- Pay Payrolls
- Pay Taxes
- Take discounts on merchandise purchases

The money is cash without borrowing. Funds are available immediately upon presentation of invoices and backup documentation. You won't need to go to the bank and re-negotiate a loan every time you need money. The amount of cash available is directly related to your company's monthly sales volume. Bookkeeping is simplified and factoring your receivables eliminates you from being both the supplier and collector. Factoring your receivables will save you time and increase your ability to service more clients.

Afra AmirSanjari is the Principal for Peacock Capital. Peacock Capital specializes in solving the cash flow challenges of Small/Medium Businesses, Government Vendors and Individuals with innovative financial solutions by providing a network for securing operating capital.
