Wealthy Affiliate: It Helped To Make Me One!

By Caiden Felix

What Is Wealthy Affiliate All About?

So, what is Wealthy Affiliate all about? The sales page makes a lot of promises, but doesn't give you much detail at all. So let me fill you in!

Wealthy Affiliate is a membership site that has been put together by a couple of young guys called Kyle and Carson. Once joined, these guys promise to guide you through the jungle at is Internet Marketing. Well, I joined in the January of this year. Heres what i found.

Does Wealthy Affiliate Work?

Upon signing up, the resources that i was given access to was really quite overwhelming. The site is literally a gold mine for any Internet marketer. You gain immediate access to keyword list, video tutorials, case studies and an excellent private forum that's full of successful marketers who openly help you with any problems that you may have. The Wealthy affiliate members are the best collection of Internet marketers that i have ever come across. My favorite part of wealthy affiliate is without doubt the one on one coaching that Kyle and Carson make available to their members. This alone is worthy of the $29 p/m fee. There are so called gurus out there that charge an absolute fortune for this kind of personal tuition.

So Bottom Line, Do You Recommend Wealthy Affiliate?

I challenge you to find a better site of its type, than Wealthy Affiliate! No, actually i don't, because if you do go out there and attempt to find something better, you will waste an awful lot of time and money and I don't want to be held responsible for it!

Seriously though, if you are in need of genuine expert help with your Internet marketing, or maybe you're new on the scene, then there is not a better place on planet earth to be than Wealthy Affiliate. You owe it to your self to check it out!

Thanks For Reading, Caiden Felix

Affiliates Should Ask For The Sale

By Peter Garant

All businessmen know the importance of that last stage of selling which is called the "closing". Such stage of selling will clinch the whole session. The same is true among online businesses, such as the affiliate marketing business. The affiliate must conduct such a closing by asking the client for the sale.

Unfortunately, the asking for the sale in online businesses, such as affiliate marketing is more challenging than the asking for the sale in a brick-and-mortar business. In land-bound business marketing, the salesman can closely observe the target client's movements of the body and the eyes so that he can gauge if it is time to close the sale or not. But in an online business, the closing of the sale will not be helped by the body language of the customer. Obviously, the affiliate cannot see the customer's body posture.

And therein lies the problem for closing and asking for the sale. The affiliate has no means of knowing whether it is time to ask or not. The asking may be too early, when the customer is not convinced enough. Or the asking may be too late that the customer has already lost interest in the product.

In online businesses, such as affiliate marketing, the affiliate need not wait for signs. The affiliate should be gutsy enough to ask for the sale, whether it is time or not. And when the asking for the sale is too early, the target customer may decide to click on the back button and never come back. When the asking for the sale is too late, the target customer may already be exploring other websites.

Despite such a difficult situation, the affiliate must still ask for the sale. If he does not ask for the sale, some visitors will think that it is a government-sponsored website and all the information provided are free of charge. Perhaps the information is literally free in many articles. But such information is posted due to one single purpose - to make a sale.

Therefore, the affiliate should not just wait for the time when the visitor eventually realizes that he is expected to click on a link that will take him to the website of the merchant. The affiliate must indicate in his website and in his emails that what he has is a business and businesses involve selling. He should also state that the recipients of his emails are not obligated to buy immediately. These recipients can make their purchases later.
